Doctors' Choice

Medicare Shunned By 100

SASKATOON (CP) — Private practice outside the Medical Care Insurance Act was the choice of more than 100 Regina district doctors, members of the Regina and District Medical Society, who made their decision Tuesday night.

It was the first reported concerted decision by doctors to shun the provincial medical care plan since settlement of the dispute.

Under the legislation governing the provincial plan, it will still be up to patients to decide whether to seek reimbursement for medical expenses.

REIMBURSEMENT
If the patient's personal physician is not enrolled under the provincial plan, the patient may seek reimbursement from the Medical Care Insurance Commission.

Meanwhile the province's emergency care program was being dismantled Wednesday and the vice-president of the Saskatchewan Keep Our Doctors Committee said he was resigning.

SPECIAL SESSION

The moves came in the wake of settlement Monday of the medical care dispute between the College of Physicians and Surgeons and the provincial government. Doctors, who boycotted the provincial medical care plan after it was implemented July 1, returned to work and the government promised a special session of the legislature to amend the act in line with Monday's agreement.

GUARANTEE CHOICE

The agreement guaranteed doctors a choice of working under the medical care act or outside it in varying degrees.

Indications Wednesday were that the long boycott and the bitter dispute cost the province a number of doctors.

Dr. J. B. Mesbur, president of the Regina Medical Society, said the permanent loss of doctors could not yet be definitely established.

Dr. Mesbur said doctors who attended Tuesday night's meeting in Regina decided that they will urge their patients to retain medical coverage with voluntary prepaid agencies.

He said enrollment fees in the voluntary agencies will not exceed $5 a year per family — just enough to cover the cost of administration.

Gas Truck Explodes Homes Razed, 19 Hurt

BERLIN, N.Y. (AP) — A tank truck loaded with propane gas exploded Wednesday on a steep hill in this eastern New York community, destroying at least nine homes and a church, and damaging at least 11 other houses. The driver died later in a hospital.

State police said more than 19 persons were taken to hospitals in nearby Troy and in Bennington, Vt. Several were reported in critical condition.

The driver was identified tentatively as Robert McLucas, 39, of Pomeroy, Pa. State police said he was driving a truck leased by E. Brooks Matlack Inc. of Philadelphia.

Firemen said the truck's brakes apparently caught fire while it was coming down a steep, winding, two-mile-long hill. The community of a few dozen homes is about 12 miles from the New York-Massachusetts-Vermont state line.

Hokien Gutermuth, 24, said he witnessed the accident from a field. He gave this account: "I heard the truck coming. The brakes were squealing. Then there was a pause, then a pop, then blast. It (the flames) must have gone 150 to 200 feet in the air... it was bright orange."

Sixteen fire departments were fighting the fires and 11 ambulances were sent to the scene.

Two Cities Taken

Civil War Looms In Algeria

ALGIERS (CP) — Civil war was threatened today in Algeria. Loyalist Algerian troops were reported marching on the eastern city of Constantine, taken by dissident forces Wednesday.

A spokesman for the provisional government said many persons were killed in clashes when forces backing the dissident vice-premier, Ahmed Ben Bella, took Constantine and another key eastern city, Bone.

In Paris, Louis Joxe, minister for Algerian affairs, said the French army may have to intervene to restore order. The newspaper Figaro reported 25 persons died and 30 were wounded as dissidents took the two cities.

TROOPS MARCHING

Some 1,200 troops supporting loyalist Vice-Premier Belkacem Krim were said to be marching on Constantine. Krim said Wednesday night his followers would fight to resist Ben Bella's attempted seizure of power in Algeria.

The report of loyalist troops on the march came from a reliable source in Tizi Ouzou, the Kabylia area capital where Krim and another vice-premier, Mohammed Boudiaf, have their headquarters. Both are opposed to Ben Bella.

REPORT ESCAPE

The sources reported also that Lakdar Ben Tobbal, a minister of state in the government of the provisional premier, Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, had escaped from Ben Bella forces who had arrested him when they marched into Constantine.

Other soldiers loyal to the central government set up machine-gun defence positions around Algiers.

GUERRILLAS READY

In the mountain stronghold of Kabylia, east of Algiers, almost 8,000 guerrillas prepared to defend their villages against Ben Bella's strike for control of this new nation.

Ben Khedda appealed for peace and unity, warning that "the dangers of civil war and foreign intervention" — apparently meaning by France — "have become real."

As he spoke a convoy of French troops were on the highways in the vicinity of Algiers. But it was impossible to determine their aim or destination.

Macmillan to Face Labor-Sponsored No-Confidence Bid

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan Wednesday continued an apparently successful campaign to restore confidence in his government.

But today he will face disgruntled members of his own party as well as open opposition from across the floor when Parliament debates a Labor opposition motion to unseat the Conservatives.

Concerned with criticism from his own men after his cabinet purge, Macmillan predicted his backbenchers at a luncheon Wednesday.

He dismissed recent by-election setbacks, predicted a Tory win at the next election and hinted at details of economic measures he is expected to put forward today.

PROMINENT VICTIM

Selwyn Lloyd, former chancellor of the exchequer, was the most prominent of cabinet members to fall under the Macmillan axe July 13 and major economic policy changes are to be expected. Most observers predict a national wages board, measures to protect consumers and some means of giving workers a sense of security and status.

With his backbenchers calmed as much as possible and encouraged by economic announcements Macmillan will then turn to the powerful trade unions.

Royal Navy Chinese Sent to Jail

LONDON (Reuters) — Three Chinese employed aboard a British cruiser were jailed for terms from one to five years here Wednesday for possessing opium and heroin worth £25,000.

Prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones said the drugs were found on the cruiser Belfast on a voyage from the Far East to San Francisco.

FOR AMERICA
Griffith-Jones said there was no doubt that most of the drugs were "destined for either South or North America."

The accused, all from Hong Kong, were Yang Hai Lou, 43; Ah Lee Wong, 31; and Kan Ping Kwok, 29 — sentenced to one, four and five years respectively.

Pageant Set to Go

The 1,000-strong cast of Victoria's centennial pageant practices grand finale at last night's dress rehearsal. Including ethnic groups, representatives of organizations and many others, cast reached high stage of efficiency by this first dress run-through, and there's still another rehearsal tonight. Show opens Saturday and runs to Aug. 4. People have been advised to get tickets early to be sure of place. See story on Page 21. — (Karl Spreitz photo.)

Glenn, Senators Orbit in Face Of Lady Luck

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John Glenn Jr. demonstrated Wednesday he can thumb his nose at superstitions and go along with a gag as well as anybody.

He did so at a meeting of 13 senators to give him a watch I cribbed "13" for his history-making flight in the 13th space capsule.

The proceedings started promptly at 10:13 a.m. when Senator Everett M. Dirksen, Illinois Republican, smashed a mirror into at least 1,300 glasses with a mighty hammer blow.

Dirksen said the Anti-Superstition Society of Chicago, at its last meeting on Friday, April 13, deputized him to present the watch for Glenn's achievement in space.

Dirksen suggested the astronaut acknowledge with a 13-second speech to the 13 senators.

Glenn came back with a crack aimed at the Senate's rule of unlimited debate: "I thought you were going to say if I talked for 13 hours, I'd be in good company here."

High-Level Briber Faces Death In Red Crackdown

MOSCOW (Reuters) — At least 10 Soviet citizens, including two high government officials, have been sentenced to death for bribery, currency speculation and fraud, it was learned here Wednesday.

One official was K. D. Degtyarev, a former department head in the Soviet finance ministry, who was sentenced to be shot for taking bribes, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

LONG TRIAL

Nine persons were sentenced to death after a four-month trial in Frunze, capital of Soviet Kirghizia, according to a local newspaper reaching here. It was the largest number of persons known to have been sentenced to death in one trial since the death penalty was introduced last year for bribery, currency speculation or misappropriation of state property.

SOME GET SENTENCES

The newspaper, Sovetskaya Kirghizia, said 48 persons stood trial at Frunze and that an unspecified number of persons were sentenced to 15 years "deprivation of freedom."

Among the nine sentenced to death was B. D. Dyushaliyev, former chairman of the republic's state planning commission.

The newspaper said the accused had stolen state property worth more than 3,000,000 rubles (about $3,360,000) and had used it to acquire foreign currency and gold for speculation.

Tass also reported that six men, said to be former German Gestapo members, were sentenced Wednesday by a north Caucasus military tribunal to be shot for taking part in mass exterminations of local inhabitants during the Second World War.

Envoy Regaled

Tell Kennedy Says Nikita

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev and his wife Nina gave an unprecedented country house farewell party Wednesday for the retiring U.S. ambassador, Llewellyn Thompson, and his wife.

They ate an eight-course terrace meal amid "interesting and useful talk," the ambassador said. Khrushchev told him to "go home and tell President Kennedy what I said."

ALL RAIES

Thompson, who leaves for home Friday, said his talk with Khrushchev covered all important issues between the two countries.

In all, Thompson spent five hours during the day with Khrushchev — the longest time the Soviet premier ever has lavished on a departing diplomat.

EIGHT COURSES
Thompson, who was U.S. ambassador here for five years, will be succeeded by Roy D. Kohler.

Mrs. Thompson, said the lunch "was delicious, all eight courses of it."

The main course was whole

Kamchanka crab from the Bereng Strait, each one two feet across. This was followed by quail shot in Siberia.

TWO MOLDS

For the rest, "name it and you've got it," said the ambassador.

"We have a very free and easy relationship," the ambassador said of Khrushchev. "He scolds me and I scold him."

New Hong Kong Crisis

Invasion by Sea Choking Colony

HONG KONG (AP) — Government officials reported Wednesday that a steadily increasing flow of seaborne refugees from Communist China is presenting this overcrowded British colony a new crisis.

They estimated the human flow by sea has tripled in the last six months to more than 300 a day — or 10,000 a month.

"The problem is more critical than the mass exodus of last May," one top official said.

The government has cracked down with stiff jail sentences for some refugee smugglers. It is considering the destruction of junks and other vessels used in the thriving smuggling trade. Practically all the illegal immigration from China now is over water and nearly all of it at night. The refugees are smuggled — at rates ranging from $3 to $100 per fugitive — in junks and other vessels that mingle with the thousands of fishing craft dotting the waters separating Hong Kong and China.

The government recently undertook a $2,000,000 program to modernize and re-equip its marine police patrols. But the number of refugees is still increasing.

Young Boxer Dies From Blow to Head

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — A young boxer making his professional debut died last night from a shattering right cross to the head.

Sonny Nunes, 19, never regained consciousness after being knocked out by Rodrigo Contreras in the final round of a scheduled four-round featherweight bout.

It was the eighth ring death so far this year in amateur and professional bouts.

U.S. Reharsing Test Ban Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will meet with top advisers Friday to consider whether to relax U.S. terms for an atomic weapons test-ban treaty with the Soviet Union.

Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said Wednesday about 10 to 12 key advisers, including defense and diplomatic officials, will attend the gathering. Salinger described the meeting as one of a series of inside-the-government discussions on how the U.S. position on a test-ban treaty may be modified.

A prior cabinet-level meeting of agency chiefs concerned with the nuclear-test situation is scheduled for today.

The White House announcement was accompanied by these developments:

1. U.S. disarmament chief William C. Foster discussed atomic test-ban safeguards at a closed session of the Senate disarmament subcommittee. The chairman, Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem., Minn.), reported Foster said the United States has not yet decided whether to modify the safeguard proposals and still believes on-the-spot inspections are needed to prevent cheating.

2. Britain's foreign secretary the Earl of Home, told Parliament in London that the United States and Britain may now propose easier terms for a nuclear test-ban accord, but said on-site inspections still will be needed.

3. The U.S. government remained silent about a report on the May 1 French atomic explosion in the Sahara desert. The report, which contains a technical data on detection of the distant blast, bears on the current test-ban discussion.

Pace-Setter on the Law Ex-Chief Justice Dies

MONTREAL (CP)—Rt. Hon. Thibaudau Rinfret, 84, retired Chief Justice of Canada, died Wednesday in Montreal's Notre Dame Hospital after a long illness.

During close to 30 years on the Supreme Court bench, about 10 of them as chief justice, he gained international recognition as one of the world's leading jurists.

He was recognized as an authority on constitutional law and on Quebec's complicated civil code. He was a philanthropist, a sports fan, a lover of opera and good literature, a lecturer.

GRAND OFFICER
He was a man of international stature. France made him a grand officer of the Legion of Honor. King George VI appointed him to the judicial committee of the Imperial Privy Council in 1947, an appointment which carried with it the title of right honorable.

NAME MENTIONED
His name was among those prominently mentioned when Canada decided in 1952 to break tradition and appoint a Canadian as governor-general, eventually accorded to the Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey.

He became chief justice in 1944, and during his long term on the bench took part in many important decisions.

Pangs of Progress

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Whenever technology makes possible manpower savings, it usually means one of two things—a fight between workers and the boss or an accommodation to the change through compromise.

A choice as to which course to take is currently being made in the labor controversy plaguing major airlines—a perfect example of the pangs of progress.

KENNEDY VIEW
It has puzzled some observers why Labor Secretary Goldberg and his aides dropped practically all other duties and concentrated every day and many nights for weeks on the airline labor problem.

The answer is that the Kennedy administration regards the airlines' dispute as a precedent-making situation.

Goldberg Settles Air Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pan American World Airways and its flight engineers settled their labor dispute yesterday on terms proposed by Labor Secretary Goldberg.

The agreement calls for binding arbitration of economic issues and settlement of the jet crew problem along lines he proposed earlier in the week.

To a great extent, the Flight Engineers International Association will be getting what it wanted. When the airlines cut jet crews to three men from four, currently-employed engineers will have priority for the third spot.

If other disputants over technological change see the airlines or the airlines' unions emerge a victor in a showdown fight over technological change, it is reasonable to assume others will try the same.

Similarly, if the airline differences can be successfully compromised—that is, if everyone involved shares the consequences as well as the benefits of reduced manpower requirements—that, too, can be an object lesson.

LAYOFFS AHEAD
Much the same problem is involved in the so-called featherbedding problem on the railroads, where 40,000 locomotive firemen face layoff as no-longer-necessary workmen.

The rail situation could erupt in a major strike in October. Administration officials foresee a lot more manpower displacement problems down the line.

That's the reason for all the administration's preoccupation and concern with the current airlines problem.

PARIS — The permanent council of NATO has unanimously adopted the nomination of U.S. General Lyman L. Lemnitzer as supreme Allied commander in Europe. Election of the 62-year-old American followed French cabinet approval of his nomination.

Leave New Guinea Dutch Tell Families

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea (UPI)—The Dutch administration here said Wednesday it is urging government officials to send their families back to The Netherlands because the threat of war hangs over the area.

Foreign Capital Economic Villain?

LONDON (CP)—The Financial Times blames excessive foreign investment for distorting Canada's economic structure and warns other countries to beware of accepting too much foreign capital when they could develop their own country to greater advantage.

"The fact that the Canadian economy came such a nasty cropper at the end of a period during which it was regularly enjoying a bumper capital inflow," the newspaper says, "has demonstrated that there are a number of... serious disadvantages a country may incur from becoming a popular target for foreign investors."

Although the exchange rate problem and "incompetent handling of monetary policy" have also led to the "distressing turn in Canada's economic fortunes," the newspaper says, Canada would not be in such a bad position if she had supervised more closely the inflow of foreign capital.

Agriculture Issue Snags Market Talks

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—British and Common Market negotiators ended without agreement yesterday another marathon session on the main obstacle to Britain's membership application—alternative farm markets for Canada, New Zealand and Australia.

Sources close to the talks said the ministerial-level negotiations would be resumed this morning.

VIEWPOINTS CLOSER

The common market's chief negotiator, Emilio Colombo of Italy, told reporters after the session that the points of view of both sides had come closer together and both Britain and the Common Market had clarified positions on world-wide commodity agreements.

During the dinner adjournment, sources close to the talks said the Common Market had proposed:

Gradual abolition of Commonwealth preferences by 1970. A world commodity conference in 1963.

Mother Must Decide Marred Baby's Fate

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—A young mother, whose two-month-old baby was born without arms or legs, is facing a heart-breaking decision.

The 19-year-old mother, who asked that her name not be divulged, said Wednesday the baby boy will be taken to Toronto this weekend for examination to determine if anything might be done for him.

SPECIAL HOME
She and her husband will have to decide by then if they wish to keep the child or place it in a special home. The mother says she was given the drug thalidomide for backache shortly after she became pregnant. The drug was later blamed for causing deformities in new-born children and banned from use in Canada.

PASSING ANOTHER CAR. This photo, shot under glass highway, shows stress on outside ribs. Centre ribs where other tires concentrate rubber, are "dead centre" of least action and wear.

STOPPING. Only small area of tire stops car. Again, outside edges take the worst beating. That's where BFG puts twice as much rubber as other first-line tires.

MORE MILEAGE! New BFG Silvertown tires put extra rubber—THE BIG EDGE—on the outside edge of the tire. Other tires have narrow edges, rubber is concentrated in centre ribs, where wear and action are least. There's twice as much rubber on BFG Silvertown's outside edges as on other major first-line tires. You get THE BIG EDGE in safety and mileage.

NEW TREAD RUBBER! Making the most of new-car suspensions, BFG worked with car engineers to develop "soft rubber" tires. They smooth bumps beautifully, they're tough yet bounce-free, they give a safe, soft, new-car ride. And they cost no more than other first-line tires!

DOUBLE GUARANTEE! BFG Silvertowns are guaranteed a lifetime for workmanship and materials, guaranteed 24 months against blow-outs, cuts, breaks caused by road hazards of normal driving.

The Fears Within

THE DETERMINATION of the Benelux nations to bring Britain into the proposed negotiations aimed at a political union of the Common Market states strongly underlines the growing distrust in which France and Germany are held by their junior partners in the present European Economic Community.

Technically speaking, Britain is not entitled to representation in such discussions until she becomes a fully fledged member of the ECM.

France and Germany are well aware of this and recognizing that Britain could thwart their obvious objective of controlling Europe between them, are using all the means at their disposal to pressure the existing ECM partners into reaching a political agreement before Britain can have her say.

However, the prospects of a Franco-German combine governing Europe is anything but pleasing to Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. In an effort to stall the precipitate action desired by the European "Big Two," they have now joined together to present a plan to their partners which stresses as its chief proposal that Britain should be brought into the political talks without waiting for the completion of her negotiations for admission to the Common Market.

The reason for their delaying tactics is as simple as it is disturbing: they do not trust either France or Germany. For long they have regarded the governments of both these countries as unstable and are therefore unwilling to place the future of Europe in their hands.

In France they see a country under control only as long as President De Gaulle remains in office. Once he goes they can see a return to the chaotic situation that existed in France almost continually from the end of the war until 1958.

In West Germany they see a former enemy still to be feared—an unpredictable nation bursting with a new national pride, full of ambitions which will stop short at nothing.

For these reasons they are determined not only to prevent France and Germany attaining a position of power over the Western European nations, but also to bring Britain into the negotiations both as their protector and as the stabilizing force needed if European political union is ever to be achieved.

A Poor Alternative

SAANICH apprehension about provincial expressway plans has given Alderman Austin Curtis occasion to voice again his objection to Victoria building a Blanshard Street extension, at an estimated cost of $800,000, as a second highway entrance. He would prefer to see Quadra Street serve this purpose.

No doubt all city taxpayers will agree with him that they should not have to undertake such a large expenditure. The Blanshard extension is needed more to improve the provincial highway system than to benefit residents and ratepayers of Victoria, and the city would be right in balking at doing the job without a large measure of provincial assistance.

Most citizens will agree with him too that council members should be kept informed of all details as planning progresses. He complains that it seems only the planners—civil and provincial staff members—have access to full information on what is projected, and this certainly should not be the case.

But a second highway connection nevertheless will have to be built before long if ever-increasing traffic is to flow into and out of Victoria with any speed and ease in the busier hours. And the development of Quadra Street to form this link as suggested by Alderman Curtis can hardly be seen as the answer.

The elementary-grade schools and the parks along this street, let alone its many back-out driveways, prohibit it from becoming a highway entrance of the kind that will be required except at the greatest of expense.

There can be little doubt that the extension of Blanshard as a non-residential main artery designed for the least-obstructed flow of traffic is the best solution to a problem that must fairly soon be solved. The concern of Alderman Curtis and other council members should be mainly for its construction at the smallest cost to local taxpayers.

Mama-Boys?

ONE of the pleasant sights in a Victoria cafe is to see big husky youngsters drinking milk. Judging by their size it seems a healthy preference and one not to be condemned as a matter of taste either.

If we are to accept the word of a well-known athletic coach, however, the habit should be frowned on. It is bad psychologically. It makes them, he says, "mother-drawn." Subconsciously they retain a link with their mothers.

This doesn't seem too big a detriment, really, and one would hope boys would not forget too easily the influence of their mothers. They could do much worse. But that is by the way.

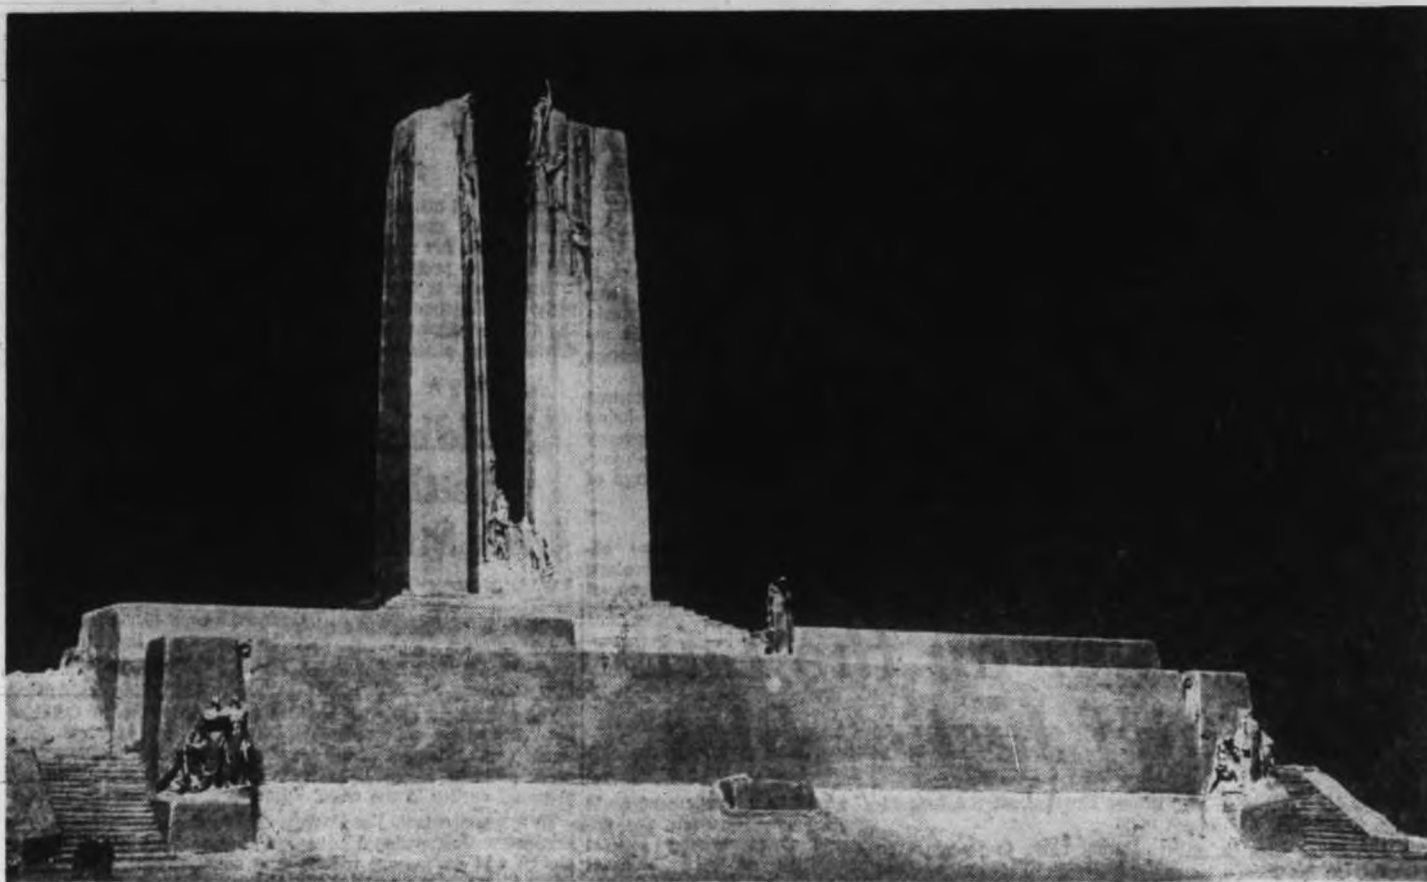

The coach in question, Mr. Percy Cerutti, sees milk as the symbol of a patriarchal society into which we are headed. He postulates acceptance of a queen as head of the Commonwealth as proof of his thesis. Mr. Cerutti is known as a producer of mile runners, presumably without milk, but he is somewhat short on history.

Probably the most glittering period in England was during the first Elizabethan age, and this is the first time anyone has inferentially suggested that Drake, Raleigh, Shakespeare, et al, were mama-boys. If they were we could do with a few more of them nowadays.

Coming closer to our own time there is the great Churchill alone, a product of another famous "matriarchal" era, the Victorian. If his mother-complex inhibited him to his or his country's disadvantage it must have been extremely sub rosa.

As for the present era, with another queen on the throne, one might cite such aggressive, manly figures as Hillary, Bannister, Richard—Premier Bennett if you like—as evidence that the past decade puts Mr. Cerutti to naught.

Perhaps he should stick to the cinder track, with or without milk.

The National War Memorial at Vimy Ridge

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax ...

By TOM TAYLOR

ABOVE me and alongside this morning is depicted an essence of Canadian history, the story of Vimy. The poet—Rupert Brooke, I think—spoke of foreign places that would be "forever England." Vimy, although a village and a ridge in France, is forever Canada.

And as the accompanying picture and notes indicate so well, Vimy is enshrined for all time in the annals of this country. It speaks great endeavor and a great accomplishment.

I can claim no association with the anniversary to be marked today, or of the deeds which it commemorates, although I have a dreamlike personal recollection of Vimy. The events of so long ago can become dreamlike, you know. Especially if they were routine.

That they were when yours truly was at Vimy, a year after the victory which made immortal the name of the Canadian Corps. Frankly I doubt now that we had heard of it, being far away and, probably, not much interested in happenings beyond our immediate environment. In those backward days of only spasmodic information about what this giant military affair was all about—the lack of briefing now seems amazing—one's thoughts and concern were small, mundane, and adhering strictly to regimental house-keeping and activity.

Luckily for us, probably, the Canadians had quieted Vimy, so that when we arrived, coming posthaste from jousting with the Turks who, strangely, were the first to tell us about the German offensive in March of 1918, the ridge was a nice place to settle when settling meant living like moles in the ground.

There was always the risk of decapitation by shell or an unhoped-for demise by an angry bullet, but these had long since been an accepted pattern of daily life so one was not unduly disturbed. No over-the-top battle impinged on our Vimy stay, hence it remains as a pleasant memory. Doubtless at the time one could have imagined more pleasant ways of being pleasant, but it is the fashion of time-spectacles to be rosy and thus give a pastoral hue to ancient vistas even if the actual scene was drab and dusty.

Hence it is that my memories of Vimy encompass vague mental pictures of Neville St. Vaast, Mount St. Eloi and the surrounding territory which the Canadian Corps knew as intimately as one does the back of his hand. Or, perhaps, when I think hard of deep repose in the claustrophobic chalk tunnels from which one emerged to trench duty, or of the deep descent from the ridge into the valley wherein our troops were by then ensconced.

A quiet memory, in total, nothing at all exciting, but enough this morn to provide a link with the high noon of the CEF in France in those distant days of 1914-18, and of the area now forever Canada. And since in the intervening years Canada has grown to be my country too, I have learned to value the connection that, tenuous and briefly, was my portion when on Vimy Ridge of imperishable renown.

A Magnificent Monument

To the Glory of Canadian Courage

By R. B. SHAW

TWENTY-SIX years ago, on July 26, 1936, nearly 8,000 Canadians witnessed the unveiling of Canada's national memorial on Vimy Ridge, France, by King Edward VIII. Five ocean liners of the Cunard and Canadian Pacific carried 6,325 pilgrims from Montreal to France, where they were joined by another 1,365 Canadian veterans from the U.K.

It was the largest pilgrimage of its kind in Canadian history, and it remains as one of the greatest organizing achievements by the Royal Canadian Legion.

This summer hundreds of Canadian tourists, many of whom are war veterans or next-of-kin of those who fell overseas, are visiting again the hallowed ground of Vimy Ridge. There stands Canada's magnificent memorial of lofty pylons erected in honor of the flower of Canada's manhood who gave up their lives for an ideal, for Canada and the Commonwealth. The Menin Gate memorial near Ypres and other battlefields in Europe are impressive, too, but the one at Vimy Ridge is the most distinctively Canadian.

It was there on April 9, 1917, one of the greatest battlefields in our war history was won by Canadians.

To Frank H. Saunders, of Victoria, a 58th Battery, CEF survivor, the great Vimy Ridge memorial is of special significance. Admirably inspired by memories of his comrades-in-arms there, and as a dedicated senior member of the Royal Canadian Legion, he felt impelled in 1958 to revisit Vimy. Alone as a voluntary legion representative, but travelling at his own expense, he made the pilgrimage.

He visualized the historic battle scene of nearly half a century ago. Nearby, the marked graves in the well-tended Canadian military cemetery. With strange emotional responses, he stood alone in the brooding silence of the consecrated ground of Vimy. Looking up at the lofty monument, he stepped forward to reverently place the Legion wreath of remembrance upon the great base. For a moment he stood in silent tribute; he treated a few steps and saluted, and turned away with a feeling that he had bade a sad farewell to his fallen comrades with whom he sensed a spiritual contact or understanding.

Like thousands of others who have seen Canada's distinctive national memorial at Vimy, Frank Saunders' impression was that it stands as a great silent sentinel testifying to the glory of Canadian courage and sacrifice in a great Canadian victory.

Other battlefield memorials in Europe and elsewhere, together with our impressive national war memorial at Ottawa, and centenaries in all leading centres of Canada, bring similar responses, individually and collectively, especially on Remembrance Day. But such pilgrimages abroad, including the earlier one by 8,000 Canadians for the Vimy memorial unveiling 26 years ago today, stir the imagination and reflect the soul of true Canadian citizenship, apart from our Remembrance Day tributes.

Thus, through the years, tributes are sincerely paid to those who once lived to loyally serve Canada and the Commonwealth. The words of Pericles seem appropriate: "Not only are they commemorated in columns and inscriptions in their own country, but in foreign lands there dwells also an unwritten memorial to them, graven not on stone but in the hearts of men."

Report from Ottawa

One CBC Inquiry after Another

By ARTHUR BLANKELY

THE CBC's annual report to Parliament for the year ending March 31, 1962, contained at least one surprise.

In his presidential message, CBC president J. Alphonse Ouimet intimated that the time had come for another "major study of broadcasting in Canada." It was necessary, he suggested, to remove any doubts that have arisen about the future roles of the CBC and the private broadcasters.

In fact, Mr. Ouimet wasn't content to suggest that another major inquiry be held. He proposed that such examinations be held at regular intervals from now on, spaced at least five years apart for the sake of order, decency and the CBC's operational convenience.

The presidential recommendation has come as a surprise, to put it mildly, because there has been no shortage of broadcasting probes and the CBC had managed, somehow or other, to leave the impression with press and interested on-lookers that it felt vaguely uncomfortable in the knowledge that investigating committees and commissions were always (or almost always) peering over his shoulder.

The last major study, handled by the Fowler royal commission, turned in its report as recently as 1957. Several other royal commissions had taken deep soundings in the same field before that. And during the last three decades, special parliamentary committees have been making studies of their own every second year or so.

This caused Mr. A. Davidson Dutton, then chairman of the CBC's Board of Governors, to observe drily in October of the very year that the Fowler Commission reported: "Certainly, I can't think of any other activity which has been probed and considered so many times and at such length by royal commissions and parliamentary committees, quite apart from all the discussions among the public, in the press, by governments, and in Parliament."

"The history of broadcasting in this country from one viewpoint seems to go in recurring royal commission cycles, with regularly succeeding phases. There is the pre-royal commission phase when everyone is waiting for a body of enquirers to be set up and certain decisions have to be postponed for that reason. Then there is the long period of royal commission work itself when many people in broadcasting spend a large part of their time writing briefs or explaining to enquirers about how things work in broadcasting."

"Then there is the post-royal commission phase when people in broadcasting wait for other people to read the report of the royal commission and form their own opinions about what it says. Towards the end of this phase, presumably, come the decisions, related or not to the report of the commission."

"I think the hope of most people in broadcasting usually is that the decisions following one royal commission are made before another commission looms up on the horizon."

There was nothing in this certainly, to suggest that Mr. Dutton subscribed to the view that what Canadian broadcasting needed was bigger and better inquiries, held at more regular intervals.

As for the parliamentary committee probes, Mr. Dutton couldn't bring himself, apparently, to dwell on the wear and tear which they imposed on the CBC and other broadcasters.

Not too long ago, Mr. Oulmet, Mr. Dutton's successor, hinted that he felt much the same way about things.

"... I must confess," he declared in one of his public orations, "that when I get such an invitation I really wonder how people can take any more facts or opinions about the CBC."

"Other than perhaps our government—regardless of party—I know of no organization that is so often talked about, written about, editorialized on for and against, damned, slurred, supported, inquired into, ignored, blamed, upheld, detested, liked, criticized, or praised, as the CBC—and often by the same people."

The Vimy Memorial, designed by Canadian sculptor Walter Allward, was unveiled at Vimy Ridge. The ridge earlier was declared Canadian territory.

1758—The fortress of Louisbourg on the east coast of Cape Breton Island was captured from the French by British troops.

1958—Prince Charles, first-born son of the Queen and Prince Philip and heir to the throne, was named Prince of Wales.

The Packback

A Grand Air

By GREGORY CLARK

RECENTLY my son took me for a ride in his disappearing propeller boat, an old-fashioned craft known affectionately as a DP. It goes about ten to twelve miles an hour. It is wide and commodious, and rides rough water like a gull. Its seats are low, and you sit back in them with an instinctively grand air, the feeling you have when you go for a ride in a horse-drawn carriage. The ladies say that riding in a DP makes them feel like the Queen Mother.

As we toddled along, we were passed by all and sundry in their launches, fast outboards and cruisers large and small. We rode their swells with something like disdain, while they snorted, skidded, thumped and banged along in one another's wash.

"The sad thing," I remarked to my son, "is that modern transportation, whether by car or boat, leaves no time for anticipation. They say anticipation is greater than realization. Here I sit, in this leisurely boat, full of anticipation."

And what is more, we did not have to sit tense, with our eyes glued to the way ahead. We had not only the time but the inclination to observe the passing scene.

As we passed by the Queen Mother, we were passed by all and sundry in their launches, fast outboards and cruisers large and small. We rode their swells with something like disdain, while they snorted, skidded, thumped and banged along in one another's wash.

Peace Congress

Moscow Muddle

By ELISABETH BARKER

THE Soviet government, through the Communist-organized World Council of Peace, recently sponsored a large international congress in Moscow, with the official title of "World Congress for General Disarmament and Peace." It would be interesting to know whether Moscow regards the outcome as satisfactory.

The aim of the Communist sponsors soon became clear during the Congress. Naturally enough, the aim could not be simply to influence world opinion in favor of disarmament, since all peoples and almost all governments want disarmament in any case. The only matter for dispute is how to achieve it. This is an extremely complex and difficult problem which can only be thrashed out between governments and experts; and this is now being done at the 17-nation conference in Geneva. It is not a matter which can be dealt with by private individuals and so could not be tackled by the Moscow Congress—however great the goodwill of many delegates.

The sponsors aimed at something different, to appeal over the heads of the governments to the peoples in order to procure their unquestioning support for Soviet policies. They wished to persuade them that these policies were entirely praiseworthy and blameless and to canalise all their longing for peace and fear of war into moral indignation against the West.

For this purpose they set out to muddle up together the issues of disarmament and colonialism and to turn the Congress into a general onslaught on Western "warmongers" and "imperialists." A particular aim was clearly to win over neutralist or uncommitted opinion, whether in Asia or Africa or in the West itself, to blind acceptance of Soviet policies.

However, the Communist sponsors made a serious mistake. They made their aims far too obvious, and so angered or disillusioned the neutralists, and all those who at least thought that there must be faults on both sides.

One Soviet speaker after another used the Congress for attacks on the West. The first Soviet astronaut, Yuri Gagarin, was brought in to denounce "some politicians and generals across the ocean" for making space flights more difficult by carrying out tests in the upper atmosphere, and for "failing to follow the Soviet example in discontinuing tests." (This second charge was particularly surprising, seeing that it was the Soviet Union which, by resuming tests in September, 1961, broke the three-year voluntary ban on tests by all three nuclear powers.)

Above all, Mr. Khrushchev himself spoke, strongly attacking the United States, NATO, and Dr. Adenauer—the "merchants of death," the "imperialist militarists," the West German "revenge-seekers"—not only over disarmament but also over Berlin. He seemed to regard the Geneva conference as a waste of time; "the Western Powers," he claimed, "do not want any agreement on disarmament questions."

The purpose set for the Congress by the Soviet hosts was therefore made painfully clear to the delegates from 118 countries and all continents who, according to the Soviet newspaper Pravda, included lords and dockers, artists and pastors, housewives and scientists, people of different ideologies, creeds and color.

Many had come for quite another purpose: to create a genuine atmosphere of goodwill in which it would be easier for the governments to seek agreement in Geneva. Some—the advocates of unilateral disarmament from Britain, the United States and other Western countries—wanted to denounce both sides equally for conducting nuclear tests.

They soon found that their Soviet hosts did not like this. The Moscow press virtually suppressed all critical references to Soviet tests; a small British group which wanted to demonstrate against all testing found that while the Soviet authorities praised such efforts in London, they would not tolerate them in Moscow. Men of religion of various creeds, including Hanan Christians and Buddhist monks, found themselves pressed by their hosts to sign a ready-made Communist-line statement; many declined.

The result of the Congress may therefore well be that Soviet muddle and clumsiness, and Soviet respect for no opinion, produced the opposite effect to the one desired: a weakening, not a strengthening, of Soviet authority and influence in the world.

John D Can Cook Mac's Goose

By JOHN BASSETT
From London

OPONENTS of Britain's entry into the Common Market are keeping their fingers crossed in the hope that Prime Minister John Diefenbaker will be as strong in his views on the need for Commonwealth protection as Robert Menzies, prime minister of Australia.

When the Commonwealth prime ministers meet here later this year it is to these two men that chief attention will be paid—both by Prime Minister Macmillan and by his political adversaries on the Common Market issue, inside and outside the Tory Party.

The hope of Common Market opponents is that the two Commonwealth prime ministers will strongly insist Britain must not enter without ironclad guarantees protecting existing Commonwealth trade agreements. As well, that the U.K. will not make any commitment for future political union.

The Six will not give such guarantees.

If Prime Minister Macmillan refuses to give such assurances to Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Menzies, then it is hoped the two men, through the press here, will appeal directly to the people of England on the basis that British entry without such safeguards will disrupt the Commonwealth.

After listening to all the economic arguments, it is difficult to assess whether Britain would finally be worse off inside or outside the Common Market. There are compelling arguments on both sides. Certainly, though—and for a long time—Australia, Canada and Ramona were rife in Ottawa last night that the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference, scheduled to open in London Sept. 10, may be postponed. Alleged reason is that Britain will be unable at that date to report fully on negotiated conditions for her entry into the common market.

New Zealand will be much worse off if Britain goes in. But the nub of the whole debate is not economic. It is political.

There can be no reasonable doubt that British entry on the terms of the Treaty of Rome, without special amendments designed to recognize the Commonwealth organization means a dramatic political shift in world alignments.

Opponents of British entry fear that some powerful figures within the ranks of government here, among both elected and appointed officials, have emotionally and mentally written off the Commonwealth.

They argue that these men believe the future of African states within the Commonwealth is completely unpredictable. That more and more these will turn away from even the most tenuous Commonwealth links.

South Africa has already gone and, within the foreseeable future, the West Indies, Australia, Canada, New Zealand and Pakistan may be all that's left.

The theory is that India and the other Asian members will more and more harden into a separate "neutralist" bloc and that, because of all these trends, Britain's future sphere of world influence and power must be within a continental European trade and political bloc. This, as opposed to being the centre of a diminishing Commonwealth organization.

United States support for British entry into the Common Market is also, of course, based primarily on political reasons. No informed person here has any doubt of the hopes and aspirations of Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Adenauer.

The visit of the German chancellor to France, to be followed by a return visit by President de Gaulle to West Germany next September, was an impressive display. These two men are determined to dominate the European scene through an ever-closer alliance between these traditional enemies.

But this official show of Franco-German solidarity has had a profound effect on British and American politicians.

The United States does not want a politically unified Europe dominated by de Gaulle and his "independent" nuclear force, supported by West Germany, and with Britain on the outside.

In fact, who does? The United States wants Britain as the dominant voice in any future United States of Europe, thus ensuring continued strong support for the whole western alliance.

The decision on British entry will finally be made by the voters of the United Kingdom. Prime Minister Macmillan may be successful in bringing the country in without an election; but if he does, this decision cannot be taken as irrevocable unless Labor gives him unqualified support in the House of Commons. This is extremely unlikely.

If Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Prime Minister Menzies cannot forecast Mr. Macmillan at the September prime ministers' meeting, and then appeal directly to the people of the United Kingdom to save the Commonwealth, Mr. Macmillan's goose is cooked.

Debate may rage on the economic advantages, or otherwise, of British entry into the Common Market. But one thing is sure:

The British people are not yet ready to break up the Commonwealth.

That is why Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Menzies will have both a grave responsibility and a glorious opportunity when they meet here in September.

Brazil in Turmoil

Blind, Groping Cyclops

By LOUIS R. STEIN
From Rio de Janeiro

IT has become fashionable to call Brazil an "awakening giant." It might be better to call it a blinded, groping cyclops.

The largest South American nation with a population of 71,000,000 has still not recovered from the shock of the resignation last year of President Janio Quadros. It is beset with political and economic problems many fear will lead to a national upheaval.

During the recent power struggle between President Joao Goulart and congress, riots erupted in several cities due to a breakdown of authority and public exasperation with recurring food shortages.

In the state of Rio de Janeiro 11 persons were killed before the military stepped in to halt looting.

Communist agitators are increasing their activities.

In the impoverished northeast hungry migrants roam in search of food. They are driven on by impersonally cruel weather. Two months ago the U.S. rushed supplies to the northeast drought areas. This month the government earmarked 50,000,000 cruzeiros (about $130,000) for aid to northeastern flood victims.

While many go hungry, 30 per cent of Brazil's farm production rots on the ground for lack of transport.

Inflation is spurred by huge annual deficits caused by padded government payrolls, mismanagement and almost universal tax dodging. About the only ones in Brazil who dutifully pay taxes are salaried workers. Their income taxes are deducted at the source.

Despite these conditions, economists say the country could be put on its feet in a very short time. Observers estimate that six months of conscientious government and sound financial policies would point the way out of the maze. In two years, they say, the country could be well on its way toward joining the ranks of developed nations.

They emphasized that Brazil has the largest industrial establishment in Latin America. One out of every three autos now in the country is Brazilian-made. Steel production is expected to surpass three million tons this year. The machine tool industry, paper manufacture, cement production and other industries are growing.

Large mineral resources are practically untapped. Brazil has the world's greatest reserves of high-grade iron ore. Its scientists have the know-how and materials to build atomic power installations to compensate for a shortage of other fuels. In the sparsely populated interior vast tracts of land have never been turned by a plow.

Although experts warn that heavy rainfall would quickly destroy cleared land in the Amazon jungle area, agriculture can be greatly expanded once transportation is made possible in Mato Grosso, Goias and other parts of the country.

The outstanding question in Brazil is whether time is on the side of democracy or totalitarianism. While democratic politics squabble among themselves, Communists seek to exploit discontent.

They are most active in the northeast where Francisco Juliao, leader of the Rural Leagues (Ligas Camponesas), preaches Castro communism. They also are strong in labor unions. A Red political strike in support of Goulart this month halted all transport and shut down most industry for 13 hours.

Children Beg to Work

The Homeless Ones

From Bogota, Colombia

Bogota's "gamins"—homeless children who roam the city by day and night in complete abandonment—are beginning to protest their plight.

Header by 13-year-old Benjamin Zabala, a group of these ragged urchins paraded through the city's downtown streets recently banging on garbage cans and blowing homemade horns to attract attention.

They carried signs reading: "We are hungry." "We suffer from cold." "We want to work." "Gamins also are Colombians."

Police broke up the demonstration.

A priest who runs a refuge for the homeless children estimated 600 boys and girls from eight to 16 years were still on the streets.

The problem is long standing in Bogota and little is done by the government to solve it.

Benjamin said his gamins collected 40 pesos during their protest march. "But 40 pesos will buy only two shoe shine kits and we need more than 100."

The gamins make their way as best they can.

Half-naked and shivering in the night rain they beg outside theatres. In the traffic jams of rush-hour Bogota they dart in among the stalled cars and wipe windshielders in the hope of a tip from the driver.

At night they wrap themselves in old newspapers and sleep huddled in doorways in Bogota's chill 40-degree temperature.

Is Army Fitted To Rule A Nation?

PEARSON
From New York

THE military in Latin America is resurgent. Generals have seized control in Argentina and Peru. They are attempting to dictate terms to politicians in Brazil.

But is a general and his military machine a competent ruler in Latin America?

An exiled poet who used to be a president says "No." An exiled general who used to be a chief of state says "Yes."

The views of Joaquin Balaguer, the poet, and Maj. Gen. Pedro Ramon Rodriguez Echavarría, the general, sum up both sides of the argument that has flared in world capitals since a Peruvian military junta grabbed power to depose President Manuel Prado and block the election of a successor who might be considered a leftist or anti-military.

"Officers are schooled in military tactics," said Balaguer, president of the Dominican Republic from 1960 until last fall. "They know very little about guiding people through troubled times."

Rodriguez, the man who threw the Trujillos out of the Dominican Republic and who held dictatorial power for a few short hours last November, disagrees.

"If political leaders don't wise up, the armed forces should step in to prevent catastrophe," he said.

At the root of the disagreement is Communism. Fear of Red activities lies behind the actions in Peru and Argentina. It is a strong factor in Brazil's continuing political crisis.

Both Balaguer and Rodriguez agree that Communism is stronger today throughout Latin America than at any time in history. But they disagree violently on strategy to combat it.

BALAGUER

Balaguer, the poet and former professor turned politician, says the answer lies in the free election of men who will enact social justice.

Rodriguez said he used to believe that social reform could offset the Communist threat.

"But that was months ago," he adds. "Now strong authority must keep the country from following Cuba's example."

Balaguer claims that any military take-over unites people of all political beliefs in opposition that "would play directly into the hands of the Communists."

In Argentina the political drama was played out when radical Peronistas won the March election. The military promptly ousted President Frondizi, annulled the vote and set up their own "caretaker" government.

In Brazil, some generals sought to back leftist President Goulart's bid for power over a rebellious conservative congress. Only behind the scenes moves by more moderate or rightist generals and admirals prevented, or at least postponed, a clash.

In Peru, the generals saw two "democratic-leftists" run one-two in last month's presidential election. Leftist-oriented candidates won control of the congress.

Rather than risk leftist rule the generals seized the government.

The issue has plagued Latin America for more than a century. Almost every country's history is a checkered board of civilian vs. military rule.

Lesson of Cuba

By WILLIAM GIANDONI

FIDEL CASTRO and Cuba apparently taught Latin American military men that the soldier, sailor or airman who hesitates at the wrong time can lose his job or his life.

That could be why, after a lapse of a few years, Latin military men again are mixing in politics with such vigor. The rise of communism in Cuba showed that a government most people considered well-intentioned can downgrade a lackadaisical or submissive military establishment quickly and without even arousing much suspicion until it is too late.

Suddenly, one day the professional military finds itself facing a firing squad of the people's army or militia.

That, at least, has been the excuse for recent military coups in Peru and Argentina.

Cup of Coffee Costs $7

Inflation Stalks Argentine

By HAROLD Y. JONES
From Buenos Aires

IF you had to pay $7 for a 10-cent cup of coffee, you would appreciate the plight of the Argentine.

The value of the Argentine peso is falling fast. Argentines have no faith in it. "Hard money" here is the U.S. dollar.

Since the political turmoil caused by Peronist election victories in March, and subsequent military moves to tighten control over the government, the peso has slipped fast. It went from 83 to the dollar to a low of 135 to the dollar this month.

But those figures don't mean much unless you translate them into everyday purchases. And the further back you go, the more dramatic the contrast.

A decade ago, an Argentine could buy a cup of coffee for 10 centavos. Today he pays seven pesos.

In the late 1920s the Argentine peso was bought and sold at about two to the dollar. Military coups in the 30s and 40s and the consequent lessening of confidence, here and abroad, caused it to drop steadily. In 1957, it was down to 37 to the dollar; 1958, 48 to one; 1959, 79 to one.

In 1960, it levelled off at 83 to one and stayed there until March of this year. "Stand by" loans from the International Monetary Fund helped.

The one peso paper note has given way to a coin. The government has issued five and ten peso coins, now that one peso isn't worth much. The old five and ten peso paper notes are barely recognizable tatters.

Argentines crowd money exchange houses every day to buy dollars. If dollars are scarce, they settle for English pounds, West German marks or Swiss francs.

A one-thousand peso note, about $7.50 U.S., is common currency. Even they are becoming cumbersome.

Businessmen carry their day's receipts to the bank, not in wallets or cash bags, but in suitcases.

The government recently issued 5,000 and 10,000 peso notes. They will at least lighten the load, for awhile.

'Astonishing' News!

Bennett Quells Rumors

A statement yesterday from Kelowna by Premier Bennett refuted some of the rumors and reports which have been current regarding the finances of B.C. and its crown agencies. Investment dealers and others were astonished when the premier stated categorically:

● The province does not owe a single cent to any chartered bank and has millions of dollars on hand;

● The Pacific Great Eastern Railway and the B.C. Toll Highways and Bridges Authority do not owe any money to any chartered bank;

● The B.C. Hydro and Power Authority has made its final payment of $600,000 to B.C. Power Corp. and is not in debt to any bank for that amount;

● The only outstanding debt of B.C. Hydro and Power is for the $400,000 convertible bonds of B.C. Electric which were called recently, and this debt is to be funded eventually in long-term debentures;

● The PGE and the Toll Highways and the Hydro authorities have borrowed $300,000 in U.S. funds at 4 1/2 per cent because of lower interest rate available in that country.

Mr. Bennett says the fund in the U.S. will save the three Crown agencies $250,000 compared with what they would have paid for borrowing in Canada.

DO BANKS AGREE?

Mr. Bennett was not available for questioning on his statement, phoned from his holiday home in Victoria, but he prefaced his important declaration with a general statement that the finances of the province are in the soundest condition in its history.

The statement does not clear the air for me at all, said one local investment dealer. "Will the banks agree this is all the province owes them?"

The dealer, asked if he did not believe Mr. Bennett's statements, answered they are out of line with reports which have been appearing recently in a Vancouver morning newspaper.

BANK SWITCH

"I am only going by what I hear," he admitted.

At the same time he asked why Mr. Bennett, if he was in such good shape with his bankers, should have removed two of his important accounts from the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce which until now handled all the banking affairs of the province and its crown agencies.

The accounts of the PGE and the Toll Highways are now with the Bank of Nova Scotia and the Toronto Dominion banks.

ONE ACCOUNT LATE

These two banks paved the way for the province's borrowing of $300,000 for the Crown agencies in the U.S. at 4 1/2 per cent.

Another dealer expressed the belief that B.C. was short of ready cash. He said it was up to four months late in paying its bills, but he would not give details although he said he knew of one $100,000 account that was far past due.

He expressed fear of what might happen if there was a run on the parity bonds Aug. 1 or Aug. 15.

THIRD PARTIES

Much of the distrust of Mr. Bennett's policies seems to be based on rumors and statements picked up from third parties, and spread either in the form of gossip or through newspapers which are antagonistic to the administration.

Some independent bond dealers even go so far as to agree a vendetta against Mr. Bennett is being waged by national financial houses and by institutions with money to lend.

Although B.C. is the province with the greatest dollar value of parity bonds in circulation and on call, it is not alone in this respect.

NO RUSH TO REDEEM

The Manitoba government last year issued $400,000 of 5 per cent savings bonds, and has not so far increased the coupon rate as Mr. Bennett did July 5 when he raised the interest rate from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent.

Despite this the Manitoba government has so far had to face no serious move to redeem its bonds.

Ronald Burns, deputy minister of finance in the Manitoba government, said yesterday only $3,500,000 of the bonds issued in 1961 had been cashed.

FORD PROMIT UP

Ford Motor Co. net profit in the first half of 1962 was $268,000,000 ($244 a share) against $209,400,000 ($190 a share) in the corresponding period of 1961.

GOLD DISCOVERY

An ore discovery of some possible significance has been made by Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Co. J. Royden Morris, who became president of the company following a management upheaval at the last annual meeting, has informed shareholders of the development.

He says diamond drilling at 40 feet below the 3,000-foot level has intersected 11 feet of two-ounce ore ($75.70 a ton) and a second hole 50 feet lower has cut two feet of 10-ounce gold ($77.30 a ton).

A raise from the 2,850-foot level is to be started immediately to evaluate the discovery.

The San Juan Pioneer is the largest carrier of its type in the world and is fitted with side rolling steel covers on three of its five hatches for use either for oil or ore.

PROFITS DISCLOSED

Net profit of Rio Algom for the six months to June 30 was $4,799,000 compared with $7,804,000 in the corresponding period of 1961.

Preston Mines Ltd., which holds a controlling interest in Rio Algom, made $3,255,000 in the first half of 1962 compared with a loss of $958,000 a year ago.

In an "open end" double maturity offering, Manitoba Hydro is selling $25,000,000 in 5 1/2 per cent bonds due Aug. 30, 1967, at 98 1/4 to yield 5.93 per cent, and in 6 per cent bonds due Aug. 30, 1962, at 98 1/4 to yield 6.06 per cent.

This is the first time a 6 per cent coupon has been offered by a province in the current tight money situation.

Dealers said the new bonds were attractive and selling well. There was a particular shortage reported of the shorter maturity.

MANY NEW LISTINGS

The Toronto Stock Exchange announces it has listed the shares of 30 companies since the beginning of 1962, six more than was listed in all 1961.

Howard D. Graham, TSE president, says 24 of the new listings are industrial, four mines and two oils.

In addition, 81 of the companies with listings on the exchange have issued and listed additional shares this year, to increase further the number of shares handled through the exchange.

TWO-WAY GIANT

The 67,500-ton dual purpose carrier which has been built in Japan for San Juan Carriers Ltd. will be used to carry ore from Peru to Japan and oil from Sumatra to Los Angeles.

The San Juan Pioneer is the largest carrier of its type in the world and is fitted with side rolling steel covers on three of its five hatches for use either for oil or ore.

U.S. Helium Monopoly Broken

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian Helium Ltd., a new company formed by Canadian, British and French interests, Wednesday announced plans for the development of Canadian helium and its sale in world markets.

The company is owned on a three-way equal basis by British American Oil Co. Ltd., British Oxygen Co. Ltd. of London, and L'Air Liquide of Paris, and it will extract and sell helium from British American's holdings in Saskatchewan.

HELIUM MONOPOLY
The announcement, commenting that helium has been virtually a United States monopoly since it was first extracted commercially at the end of the First World War, said:

"Since the U.S. allows only small amounts to be exported, for research and medical purposes, a Canadian source of supply should open the way for expansion of helium use throughout the free world."

SPACE-AGE USES
The announcement adds that the lighter-than-air, non-inflammable gas, which in the past has been used chiefly for lifting airships and weather balloons, has properties that qualify it for many dramatic space-age uses. It gives a long list of extraordinary applications.

BIG INVESTMENT
The new company has an initial investment of $1,500,000, part of which will be used to purchase all British American's helium interests in Saskatchewan.

Immediate plans call for drilling a second well to further delineate field reserves and for commencing design and engineering on a processing plant with initial capacity to extract 12,000,000 cubic feet of helium annually.

IMPROVE METHODS
The plant, scheduled to be in operation by April 1 next year, will be built by L'Air Liquide, whose Canadian subsidiary has design and fabrication facilities in Montreal. British Oxygen will contribute extensive research regarding plant design, use of helium and possible improved methods for transporting it.

CONSUMPTION UP
World consumption of helium, the announcement says, has been increasing by about 30 per cent annually. Last year it was about 600,000,000 cubic feet, of which only 3,500,000 cubic feet were used outside the United States, including less than 700,000 cubic feet in Canada.

DISCOVERY ACCIDENTAL
Most known helium reserves, the announcement continues, occur in combustible natural gas but the Wilhelm field contains large reserves of recoverable helium in a mixture of approximately 98 per cent nitrogen, two per cent helium and two per cent other gases.

Rites

Slated For Park

Beacon Hill Park will be the scene of three of five sunset ceremonies scheduled for the Royal Canadian Navy during the next three weeks.

The famed Naden band and other units will take part in all five ceremonies, the first to be held on the parliament building grounds on Saturday, July 28.

The navy will hold the second ceremony on Thursday, Aug. 2 at the same place.

Then, as part of the RCN's "Salute to Victoria," Thursday, Aug. 9, Friday, and Saturday will see the ceremony staged at Beacon Hill Park.

'Wonder Gas' Helps Space-Age

TORONTO (CP) — Dramatic space-age uses and a long list of "wonder" characteristics of helium are outlined by Canadian Helium Ltd. in its announcement of plans to develop Saskatchewan helium for world sale.

Some of the characteristics and uses are:

Colorless, odorless, tasteless, non-inflammable and chemically inert. Never combines with any other substance and so cannot be manufactured by any chemical process. Accounts for only five parts in 1,000,000 of air and only commercially feasible sources are extremely rare sub-surface deposits such as are found in the U.S. southwest and Saskatchewan.

Extraction from other gases made possible because it remains a gas at a lower temperature than any other substance. Second lightest element, about twice as heavy as hydrogen. Will reveal in minutes the presence of a leak so tiny it would not permit a quart of air to escape in 2,000 years.

Used in construction, testing and operation of space vehicles; helps harness atomic power in gas-cooled reactors; used in medicine, gas chromatography, metallurgy, electronics, welding, optics, illuminated signs; for research into cryogenics, temperatures below minus 200 degrees Fahrenheit, atomic amplification and ion propulsion for future spacecraft.

Mixed with oxygen enables people with asthma or other respiratory trouble to breathe more oxygen through restricted passages with less muscular effort.

Canada Needs Far More Mental Homes

Facilities in Canada for care of the mentally sick have increased greatly in recent years but more are needed, says a psychiatrist who has arrived in Victoria to take charge of the Victoria Mental Health Centre.

Dr. Charles Gregory, whose appointment was announced last Friday by provincial Health Minister Eric Martin, comes to Victoria after five years at the University of Toronto. He is awaiting the arrival of his wife and two children, aged 2½ and six months.

HAVE MORE BEDS

Europe and Great Britain have more psychiatrists and more beds in psychiatric hospitals than North America has, he said, even when population is taken into account.

And North America should have more doctors and beds because places are so much farther apart than in the old country.

Dr. Gregory received his medical training in Britain where, at the University of Liverpool, he concentrated on the workings of the nervous system.

He believes good psychiatry is based on physical medicine.

MADE STUDY

He has made a study of how people communicate with one another and thinks the study of language is more important to psychiatry than is generally thought.

Community psychiatry is one of his special interests, but his new job is his first venture into the field. Besides teaching and doing research at universities, Dr. Gregory has worked in British mental hospitals and done private practice on the side while employed by universities.

SAME AILMENTS

He said North Americans are subject to about the same mental ailments as Europeans. However, alcoholism and drug addiction, serious problems in Canada and the United States, are not serious problems in Europe except for alcoholism in France and Sweden.

Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, chief medical officer of the metropolitan board of health, said yesterday that, "if there are no signs, the beaches are safe."

Harold Menkes of Victoria has been awarded the Canadian Cystic Fibrosis Foundation $800 giftship for research.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Menkes, 2770 Heron, he is a senior medical student at UBC. He also receives a $200 grant from the faculty of medicine.

An 18-year-old girl was slightly injured when a car was involved in a rear-end collision at Burnside and Seaton yesterday.

Lucille Merriman, 1184 Goldstream Avenue, a passenger in a car driven by Grant Garner, 323 Seaton, was treated in hospital for a cut lip. Police said the other driver was Burton MacLoud, 3162 Harriet.

Port Angeles Official Douses Bonfire Plan

A Port Angeles official held little hope last night that the city across the strait would engage in a bonfire contest with Victoria.

Victoria centennial officials sent a challenge to Port Angeles citizens to build a bigger fire than the one planned for Clover Point marking Victoria's official 100th birthday Aug. 2.

Grass Flares As Boy Plays

A fire believed to have been caused by a young boy playing with a magnifying glass burned a 25-foot circle in some dry grass near 365 Wickheim Place yesterday.

Colwood volunteer firemen were 45 minutes putting out the blaze and damping down the surrounding area.

Island 4-H Members To Visit U.S. Pulp Mill

A group of 30 young 4-H club members from Saanich will leave Vancouver Island Friday afternoon for a week-end exchange visit to Grays Harbor County in Washington under the supervision of Duncan assistant district agriculturalist Richard Collis.

In return young farmers from Grays Harbor County have been invited to visit Vancouver Island next year. The local youngsters will tour the Weyerhaeuser pulp mill, Ocean Spray cranberry packing plant and a fish-smoking plant and go on a charter boat cruise.

Regal Trips Galore

An enviable array of prizes will go to Centennial Queen Carol-Ann Howay and the two runners-up in the queen contest. (See picture, Page 21.)

Nineteen-year-old Miss Howay, a bank teller, will receive a complete wardrobe and either a week's vacation in Hawaii for two or $700, as well as being named the star in the forthcoming centennial pageant.

PAIR OF TRIPS

For the runners-up, Jane Bowring, 18, will receive a weekend trip for two to the Seattle World's Fair, and Brenda Lasila, 21, will receive a weekend trip for two to Harrison Hot Springs.

Other princesses, in the order of public voting, are Pat Conrad, Deljeet Manak, Lorraine Wood, Arla Rendie, Audrey Hayley, Candis Heath, Joan Gaunt and Carole Dobey.

You have undoubtedly found that State Express 555 Filter Kings are almost a half inch longer than regular cigarettes. In fact, there isn't a longer cigarette in Canada. You were probably more than pleasantly surprised to find that 555's smoked a little cooler and gave you a taste that is richer, smoother and noticeably more rewarding.

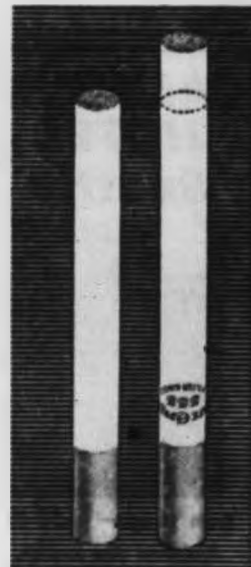

Why?

We found that certain tobaccos were particularly well suited to this new continental king-size length. These we reserved for State Express 555 Filter Kings. Then we added a superb filter and the world famous State Express manufacturing techniques. In combination they give you an elegant cigarette of outstanding quality.

A cigarette, however, is a personal thing—and if you haven't tried State Express 555 Filter Kings, pick up a carton and... join the club.

Now you can have all the ease and convenience of ready-to-cook chicken PLUS fresh-from-the-farm flavor. Here is how MANOR HOUSE can make good on that promise.

MANOR HOUSE fryers are chosen by their flavor age. Fryers reach their peak of flavor and are of uniform size when they reach 9 to 11 weeks old. MANOR HOUSE segments are from similarly selected chickens.

Then, to keep their good fresh-tasting flavor, MANOR HOUSE fryers are immediately flash frozen in modern freezers to prevent flavor loss and tissue "dry-out". That's why they taste so much fresher than ordinary chickens.

But even the finest chickens must be protected from moisture and flavor loss of long storage. So MANOR HOUSE Frozen Fresh Fryers and segments are rushed to your store under refrigeration.

So you buy MANOR HOUSE . . . days . . . even weeks FRESHER!

Winslow Will Hands Down Family History

Effects of an historic family were handed posthumously by a father to his son this week when the will of Francis Edward Winslow, of 1044 Craigdarroch, Victoria, was probated in the Victoria Court house.

Edward Thomson Winslow inherited an old family iron chest, other personal effects of the deceased and family papers. Net value of the estate was given as $96,292.

Mr. Winslow, who died May 11 at the age of 78, left his daughter Barbara Peace Bradford his wristwatch, which formerly belonged to his son Frederick P. T. Winslow. The daughter of the deceased,

E. Pamela Winslow, received $1,000 and was informed she is to be provided for in his wife's will. His wife receives $2,000 annually from the residue of the estate for the rest of her life, after which the estate passes to E. Pamela Winslow. Mr. Winslow was a descendant of Edward Winslow, who crossed to America in 1620 in the Mayflower and became first governor of Massachusetts. Of United Empire Loyalist stock, Mr. Winslow came to Victoria in 1912. He was associated with many charities, including Sunshine Inn, a house of help for depression-era needy. He received the OBE for work in selling war bonds and the Good Citizenship Medal for community services. He retired in 1949 as manager of the Royal Trust Company in Victoria.

Dollar Discount Sends Mac-Powell Profit Soaring

Stimulating effect of the Canadian dollar discount on export sales resulted in an increase of $17,236,000 in gross revenue for the half year ending June 30, compared with the same period a year ago. MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. reports.

Earnings per share for the first six months were 88 cents this year, compared to 58 cents per share for the same period of 1961.

In general, markets have been better and demand stronger than in the same period last year, although recently lumber has shown signs of slowing up, the report states.

By the same token, net income for the first six months in 1962 has risen by over $6,000,000 compared to net profit made from January to June, 1961.

Part of this increase is due to the devaluation of the Canadian dollar—$2,950,000 after 1, 1962.

The company estimates contracts with major and smaller unions will cost an additional $2,500,000 before taxes for the 12-month period starting July 1, 1962.

Agreement reached with the International Woodworkers of America will require an additional $1,200,000 for the period from July 1, 1963, to July 1, 1964, the report says.

The B.C. government has been approached by the company and other B.C. forest firms to persuade the U.S. government to refrain from erecting a tariff or other barrier against the import of lumber from Canada, the report says.

It added such a step would not only damage B.C. exporters but also harm the entire Canadian economy.

Sub Fleet Urged

QUEBEC (CP)—One of the navy's senior officers says Canada should have her own submarine fleet.

Speaking at a press conference aboard the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, Commodore Michael G. Stirling said a good start would be the replacement of the three submarines borrowed from Britain, now serving as training vessels for Canadian seamen, with three constructed in Canada.

ESSENTIAL PART

Submarine operations are an essential part of the training of men in anti-submarine warfare, he said.

"We have the surface vessels and we are gaining experience in this field but I feel that this experience would be greatly improved if we had our subs in which to train our men."

Dog Corps Takes Bite Out of Offer

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Akron police department, in the process of establishing a canine corps, is recruiting dogs to accompany policemen on patrol duty.

A woman telephoned Deputy Police Chief Boyd Buck Monday to offer her dog to the corps, explaining:

"I'm sure he'll do a good job for you. He's already bitten three children in the neighborhood."

Businessman:

School Hinders Eskimos

EDMONTON (CP)—Eskimos are hindered more than they are aided by education, Bruce Mathew, member of a two-man city Chamber of Commerce mission to Inuvik N.W.T., said yesterday.

Mr. Mathew, sent to Inuvik to investigate Edmonton's trading position in the north, said education does not adequately prepare Eskimos to be effective in modern white society and destroys their ability to fill their traditional role as hunters and trappers.

LITTLE PROSPECT

He said Inuvik is a "government" town and there is little prospect it will become anything else. Inuvik was built across the Mackenzie River from Aklavik by the federal government.

Mr. Mathew said Eskimos are moving from Inuvik to Aklavik, on the eastern side of the river, to be nearer their traditional hunting grounds.

NATURAL SITE

He said Aklavik obviously was the "natural" site for the town.

Mr. Mathew said parcels sent to Inuvik from abroad are covered by postage only as far as Edmonton. Inuvik residents must pay the postage from Edmonton to Inuvik—a hand-over from the old days that should be remedied, Mr. Mathew said.

Slow, Steady Lost This Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two men bumped Edward Duval in an apartment lobby Tuesday and grabbed his wallet containing $3.

The men ran. Duval chased them.

It was a close race at first, but after a half-block the men pulled away and Duval quit.

"I guess it's just as well I didn't catch them," Duval told police. "Probably couldn't hold 'em. After all, I'm 80."

26 Sons Slipped Quietly to Jail

NELSON (CP)—A quiet and guarded operation has moved another group of Sons of Freedom Doukhobor prisoners from Nelson to Oakalla Prison.

RCMP kept secret the transfer of 26 men Monday from the provincial jail to prevent any demonstrations by women members of the sect. Only five Freedomites are left in Nelson to await preliminary hearing on terrorist charges.

$4,800,000 Already Spent on Columbia

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia Power Commission spent $4,800,000 on early investigations, the commission said in its last annual report.

As of March 29 the commission became part of the B.C. Hydro and Power Authority and the Arrow Lakes dam, the Mica Creek dam and overall river engineering is needed before stipulates only storage capacity and performance requirements for the projects. Design itself had been left up to experts from Canada and the U.S. and discussions on design already are well advanced.

Killer-Serum Claim Denied

LONDON (AP)—Health Ministry officials said yesterday a campaign to vaccinate every baby in Britain against smallpox will go on unchanged. A doctor's claim that the vaccinations caused more deaths in this country than smallpox itself was dismissed as "a minority view in the medical profession."

Speaking at the annual conference of the British Medical Association Tuesday, Professor George Dick of Belfast University, a member of a committee that advises the health ministry, asserted that the government's aim of 100 per cent vaccination would kill 20 babies a year.

He thought it probable that vaccination deaths were not recorded by doctors as such. Professor Dick is an expert on infectious diseases. A spokesman reported that in 10 years 2,600,000 babies under 12 months old have been vaccinated against smallpox.

Old Men Balk Kennedy Says 'Dejected' Europe

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
A picture is being built up in Britain and Europe of President Kennedy as a young man in a can. However they feel about specific issues, they are seldom inclined to question the basic tenets of the American political system; however, passionately concerned about medical care for the aged, they are unlikely to garnish cocktail party chatter with references to "our crisis of institutions."

FEWER INHIBITIONS
Perfidious Europeans, on the other hand, have fewer inhibitions, and Washington correspondents are cabling some sharp-edged stories about the difficulties confronting a hustling, progressive president who still wears a crusader's halo.

The defeat of Kennedy's Medical Care Bill has led to pointed mention that the president, despite his drive and determination, has succeeded so far in pushing through only 20 of 285 new bills since he took office.

OLD-FASHIONED RETUP
Implicit in nearly all accounts is a feeling that there is something out-of-fashion about a legislative setup which places the president at the mercy of a few elderly members belonging in this case to his own Democratic party.

Singled out as particular villains of the piece are such powerful figures as Judge Howard W. Smith, 80-year-old chairman of the House of Representatives rules committee, and 75-year-old Harry F. Byrd, chairman of the senate finance committee.

SAFE PREMIUM
It is noted that the chairmen of committees derive their jobs largely from long service, thus putting a premium on seniority and safe seats.

A British newspaper, The Observer, draws this conclusion: "In Europe the old cling to power and block the younger men's ideas; in America the young are nominally in control but the old men still stand in their way."

Arm Restored

Surgery Crucial For Boy

BOSTON (AP)—The freckle-faced youngster whose severed right arm was restored in his hospital for a series of new operations.

Dr. Ronald Malt said Wednesday 12-year-old Everett Knowles Jr., will be admitted to Massachusetts general hospital in a week or 10 days for the most crucial phase of the arm re-implantation.

CONNECT FIBRES
Doctors will attempt to re-connect the numerous nerve fibres which were completely severed along with the bone, veins, flesh and skin—by the wheel of a freight train May 23.

Dr. Malt said the outcome of the nerve-connecting operations will determine whether the arm again will be a useful part of the boy's body—or whether it will be amputated as useless.

LEMB RESTORED
Three weeks after Everett was wheeled into the Massachusetts general hospital operating room without his right arm, the youngster walked out with the limb restored to his shoulder.

Three separate operations were required. Doctors say never before has a severed limb been successfully re-implanted to a body.

Skipper Named

OTTAWA (CP)—Lt.-Cmdr. William H. Atkinson, 39, of Mississauga, Man., has been named commander of the destroyer escort HMCS Haida and promoted to the rank of commander, the navy announced yesterday.

Lt.-Cmdr. Atkinson has been Canadian naval liaison officer with VX-1 United States navy experimental squadron at Key West, Fla., since September, 1960.

The Sincere Try

They may lack the size of senior lacrosse players, but youngsters in the Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association take a back seat to no one when it comes to determination, as this scene from midget division game testifies. Players from all divisions are on display at Memorial Arena tonight in annual Minor Lacrosse Jamboree, starting at 6.30. —(Karl Spreitz photo.)

Riders Could Sue for Libel Eskimos Deflate Argonauts

(From Canadian Press Reports)

Early reports that Ottawa was to be the weak sister of Canadian football this season are being rapidly spiked by the Rough Riders.

Besten by one point, on a late touchdown, by Winnipeg Blue Bombers after an 18-6 win over B.C. Lions, the Riders made it two out of three in their pre-season games last night by upsetting Calgary Stampeders, 24-21, at Calgary.

At Edmonton, Toronto Argonauts, who had hoped to become the power in the Eastern Conference this season, took a 20-7 drubbing from the still-potent Eskimos.

DEFENSIVE SHOW

It was a defensive battle that 12,000 Calgary fans watched. It was 32 for Ottawa at half-time — Moe Racine's field goal against two singles by George Hansen.

Sophomore Dick Desmarais, who appeared to have suffered a serious leg hurt late in the fourth quarter, scored a fourth-quarter touchdown at 7:37 to put Riders ahead, 9-3. Fullback Earl Lunsford chewed off 34 yards for a Calgary touchdown with less than three minutes left but couldn't manage the convert to tie.

OPENING JOIT

A crowd of 9,000 Edmonton fans got a jolt when rookie halfback Joe Hernandez ran the opening kickoff back 63 yards to the 14-yard line. Dick Shatto went 11 yards for the touchdown and Bill Mitchell converted to put Argos ahead, 7-0.

Eskimos' first-string unit, directed by Jackie Parker, couldn't do better than a second-quarter field goal. Then Don Getty came in to call signals, and the veteran Canadian quarterback soon straightened matters out.

He put Eskimos ahead with a 96-yard touchdown march which saw him get 31 yards from fullback Johnny Bright and throw four passes for 63 yards, the last one 15 yards. Tommy Joe Coffey for the score. Coffey got the convert to make it 10-3, Edmonton, at the half.

Alan White, a rookie half back from Wake Forest College, carried the second-half kickoff for 106 yards to get Edmonton's second touchdown.

Penetration of Park Patrons Brings Out Splinter-Erasers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There have been plenty of complaints about Candlestick Park, home of San Francisco Giants of the National League.

Visiting pitchers started by moaning about tricky winds that blow across the park.

Then a lawyer won a case because the Giant management didn't heat his box seat according to what he termed "advance billing."

Now it's splintering wooden seats, and this time the Giants are doing the beefing because the city is responsible for park maintenance. Giants owner Horace Stoneham told Mayor George Christopher Tuesday splinters from seats in the stands are penetrating posterior.

Twelve youths armed with sandpaper today started a four-day career as splinter erasers at $1 an hour.

Three in Quarter-Finals Of Provincial Net Meet

Three players reached the men's singles quarter-finals last night as play continued in the B.C. Open tennis tournament at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Marco Carriedo of National City, Calif., beat Brian Leck, 6-4, 7-5. Third-seeded Jim Jackson downed Jack Darrah, 7-5, 6-0, in an all-California match, and sixth-seeded Jack Neer of Portland beat clubmate Barry Baskin, 6-2, 6-3.

First real upset of the tournament took place in the women's singles, where unseeded Liz Rapoport of Fullerton, Calif., stopped fourth-seeded Roberta Alves of San Francisco, 4-6, 6-4, 6-0.

Today's draw: 12-98, Joe Watson vs. Richard Neer vs. Carriedo; Jimmy Jackson vs. Darrah; Neer vs. Baskin; Neer vs. Baskin; Neer vs. Baskin.

Damyankees Threaten Britain's Way of Life

LONDON (UPI) — Home plate has nothing to do with dining, a London newspaper carefully explained today.

For the benefit of millions of Britons who saw their first game of baseball—a sophisticated version of rounders—from the United States via Teletar Tuesday night, the Daily Sketch printed a rough idea of the rules. "Baseball," it said, "is played on a diamond-shaped pitch. The batters' side take their places one at a time in a chalked area next to the home plate. This plate has no edible connections, consisting as it does of a piece of rubber 17 inches wide.

The pitcher, a slob who stands on a slab 60 feet, 6 inches from the batter, has to throw the ball over the home plate. . . . "Here baseball terminology acquires its own savage charm. Should the batter miss the ball which has been delivered correctly a 'strike' is called. Should the pitcher miss the strike zone, however, it is aneeringly dismissed as a ball.

If the batter succeeds in clouting the ball he has made a 'hit.' He then runs as fast as he can to either first, second or third base. Should the batter hit the ball right out of the ground, he has made a home run which is better than invitation to tea at the White House.

The Sketch warned its readers that "there's a risk that those damn (New York) Yankees will soon be part of our lives."

Houk Must Sigh

That 1937 Lineup Would Stop Trend

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — The all-star dodge goes into high gear this weekend, and it seems somewhat probable today that some of the players are going to the wrong stadium.

What brings this to mind is that the New York Yankees will stage their 16th annual old-timers' day at Yankee Stadium on Saturday. Then, on Monday, at Chicago's Wrigley Field, the season's second major league all-star squabble between the National and American Leagues will take a curtain call.

COULD USE DRAFT

And, off the record of recent doings in this latter series, the American Leaguers might do worse than draft some of the players who will show up at Yankee Stadium for the old gaffers' get-together.

Foreign Aces Dominate Junior Meet

VANCOUVER — Only three Canadians were left in the running in the under-18 class after yesterday's play in the B.C. junior clay court tennis championships.

Andre Tielemans of Montreal, seeded fifth; Windsor's Faye Urban, seeded second, and Vancouver's Vicki Berner, seeded third, all won their singles matches in the third round. Other Canadians couldn't make the grade.

Among those to fall in the third round was Don McCormick of Victoria, who was beaten, 6-2, 6-3, by Ron Dewing of El Cajon, Calif.

Home Runs Don't Mean More Runs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Home runs thrill the crowds but baseball records show that as home runs increase, runs scored decrease.

Post-Dispatch sports editor Bob Broeg, who checked records back to 1919 reports that "major league ball clubs scored runs at a more rapid rate in the past when they were hitting fewer homers."

In 1920, American League teams scored 5,990 runs, getting only 370 homers.

Two years ago, the last time it was an eight-team league, the American League scored 5,414 runs, but hit 1,086 homers.

Broken Nose Ends Career

RED DEER (CP) — Life suspension from football for Pat Hannigan, forward with the National Hockey League New York Rangers, has been voted by the Red Deer Men's Football Association.

The unanimous vote followed an incident in a Monday night game in which umpire Bill Scott received a broken nose.

The suspension, which is to be reviewed in five years, applies only to Hannigan's playing football in the Red Deer city league.

Dairy Future Bright

OTTAWA (CP) — Increased consumption of dairy products indicates a strong position and excellent prospects for the trade, the National Dairy Council of Canada said today in a statement on behalf of its processors and manufacturers.

CLAIMS DENIED

It denied claims that manufacturers rather than dairy farmers are getting the benefit from government subsidies.

It followed Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures showing that consumption has picked up in various items including butter but that output and stocks also are substantially higher than a year ago for butter.

SUBSIDY HELPS

As of May 1, the government implemented a $42,000,000-a-year subsidy cutting butter prices 12 cents a pound while farmers continued to get a support price of 64 cents a pound for top grades.

"The industry is very encouraged by the increase in consumption of butter," said President Pierre Cote of the Dairy Council.

Federal Tories Shirked Duty Says Alberta Party Chief

CALGARY (CP)—The federal Progressive Conservative party has lost sight of Conservative principles, shirked its duties and wandered into indecisiveness, says Ernest Watkins, acting leader of the Alberta Progressive Conservative party.

Mr. Watkins, writing in the Calgary Herald, said Tuesday the federal party should return to the drawing board. He said Canadians in the June 18 federal election "told politicians very clearly to go away and do some fresh thinking, and I for one do not feel disposed to argue with that verdict."

'No Hands on Clock' Filming Postponed

VANCOUVER (CP)—Commonwealth Film Productions Ltd., a new company which began this year to produce feature-length movies here, announced Wednesday filming of No Hands on the Clock has been postponed until next spring to allow for an expansion in production plans.

Filming of the movie, written by James Clavell, was scheduled to begin Aug. 31 with Mr. Clavell directing and producing.

BIG ENTHUSIASM

"We knew it was good," said Commonwealth president Oldrich Vachek Wednesday, "but the screenplay of this fantasy thriller has aroused such unusual enthusiasm both in the United States and the United Kingdom that now we think we have a major property."

"We are going to increase the production budget appreciably and film in color."

Commonwealth, established by Mr. Vachek during the last five years, filmed its first movie The Sweet and the Bitter in June with Mr. Clavell as director-producer. It is scheduled for release sometime within the next four months.

In the meantime, Mr. Vachek said the company plans to produce at least one other feature-length film.

EDMONTON (CP)—A 25-year-old Hay River, N.W.T., man broke away from two police officers Tuesday in the corridor of an Edmonton hospital, raced down the corridor and jumped through a closed window, landing on a paved roadway four storeys below.

Hospital officials said the man suffered multiple injuries to his arms and legs, internal injuries and cuts from the window glass. Officials said he was in serious condition Wednesday.

The man's name was not released and police said he probably would not be charged.

The man disappeared from his ward; two police officers found him on a street wandering dazedly in his nightshirt and returned him, but he burst

Luther Film Ban Lifted

MONTREAL (CP)—A nine-year-old ban on the film Martin Luther has been lifted by the new Quebec film censorship board.

Maurice Leroux, named to head the board May 9, said Tuesday night it is "incomprehensible" to him that the film on the life of the great Protestant leader was prohibited from public showing in Quebec theatres in 1953.

Hog Cholera Probe Set

QUEBEC (CP)—Plans for a joint study of the current hog cholera outbreak by the provinces of Quebec and Ontario and the federal government were set up Wednesday by provincial ministers of agriculture meeting here.

Victoria Mourned Waste of 198 Lives

By J. T. JONES

The handsome steamer Golden Gate sailed from San Francisco July 21, 1962, for Panama and England with 212 passengers and a crew of 95.

On Sunday, July 27, while the ship glided through a glassy sea, only an hour and a half out of Manzanillo, Mexico, fire broke out in the engine room amidships.

The panic-stricken, blundering half-hour that followed saw 198 people die.

Birth Of A City

There have been only 35 marine disasters as bad or worse, including wartime losses. Only three ship fires in that time have cost more lives than were lost with the Golden Gate.

The loss was staggering news in Victoria, where many mourned friends and relatives. And as more and more detailed reports of the disaster arrived, it became clear most of the victims, probably all of them, could have been saved.

John Jenkins, one of the survivors, wrote an angry letter back to Capt. Edward Stamp and Gilbert Sproat in Victoria, blaming the heavy toll on a series of wrong decisions by the ship's officers.

When the fire was first found, he said, the vessel's pumps could have hosed it down in two minutes, but for some reason they weren't available. A futile bucket brigade was formed. The fire gained.

There were ample lifeboats to take off every person aboard, said Mr. Jenkins, plus a large supply of lifebelts, but the ship didn't stop to put them over the side. Instead the captain headed her at full speed for shore, about 3½ miles away.

The captain also ordered most of the passengers forward, and the fire soon cut them off from the boats, which were carried off. The ship's speed, said Mr. Jenkins, and when an attempt was made to lower the boats, those that could be cleared carried only 40 people.

The crew was scattered all over the ship and disorganized. One crewman gathered up gold coins scattered on deck by the passengers, piled them into two bags and jumped overboard, sinking like a rock.

The helmsman, driven from his post by fire, fought back with a rope to lash the wheel and hold the ship on course.

Up forward, about 30 people were driven over the side, and killed by the steamer's thrashing paddle wheels. When the vessel finally beached, the flames licked forward and the survivors had to jump into the surf, where more were drowned. Those who reached shore found themselves on a deserted beach, a mountain and jungle removed from Manzanillo.

A party of 30 of the strongest made the trek for help, hounded by hunger and mosquitoes. Eventually all the survivors were rounded up and brought back to San Francisco aboard the steamer St. Louis.

John Jenkins was a bitter man, and so were those who mourned in Victoria.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, July 28th—Summer is the busy season for housebreakers. So many homes are left empty for the easy-picking of valuables. Make sure you don't have to pay for thieves! Make your valuables and important papers in a BANK OF MONTREAL Safety Deposit Box. I do! It costs so little and it's worth every penny! I can leave home at any time, with no nagging thought of precious possessions left at home at the risk of fire and theft. All of my papers and the little things I care most about are safely stored away in a Bank of Montreal Safety Deposit Box at a convenient branch of "My Bank" . . . at a cost of just two cents a day!

SUCH A WONDERFULLY SIMPLE WAY to pep up lazy summer appetites . . . and yet it never fails! Simply add a dash of mustard . . . its spicy bite goes deliciously with many many foods from soups and meats to salad dressings. Yes, COLMAN'S DRY MUSTARD with its uniform strength, works wonders when added to ready-made salad dressings. And here is my own favourite home-made salad dressing recipe. I know you'll agree it's heavenly . . . and so economical!

Cooked Salad Dressing
1 teaspoon Colman's Dry Mustard
1 teaspoon cold water
1/2 teaspoon butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon salt
to cup salad oil

Mix mustard with water and let stand for 15 minutes. Melt butter in top of double boiler. Boil for 10 minutes. Add water and mix with spoon and thicken. Pour white sauce into mustard and remaining ingredients. Beat with rotary beater until thickened. Yield: 1 cup. There are ever so many ways to make good food taste better with a dash of mustard! In my next column I'll give you my recipe for an exciting Hot Dog Relish.

"THE FIRST SUMMER I HAVEN'T DREADED IN YEARS!" . . . that's what a hay fever sufferer told me. Last year she used RAZ-MAH and longed for relief from the sneezing, blowing, gasping, wheezing that had made her summers miserable. Taking RAZ-MAH GREYS has made a new woman of her . . . she can now feel normal, right through the hay fever season. The change in my friend impresses me so much that I'd like to recommend RAZ-MAH GREYS or BROWNS to you. If you suffer from asthma or hay fever. For young children: RAZ-MAH GREYS JUNIORS.

ONE, TWO, THREE . . . there are three BIG benefits for you in FLEISCHMANN'S 100% CORN OIL MARGARINE . . . and many others I'm sure you'll discover for yourself. What are the Big Three Reasons for using Fleischmann's Margarine? First of all, because it is made from pure corn oil, it is low, low in saturated fat. (Ask your doctor about its benefits in your daily diet!) And secondly, Fleischmann's has a flavour you'll love . . . spread on bread or in your cooking, this is a truly delicious-tasting margarine. Thirdly, Fleischmann's Corn Oil Margarine always spreads easily, even just out of the refrigerator . . . which I'm sure it will be—often—for snacks or meals at any time of the day or evening.

DO YOU SPEND THE DAY cooking, cleaning, and shopping? Well, I've found the most pleasant remedy for "four o'clock fatigue." You'll actually feel the tensions of the day disappear in a warm bath, delightfully scented and conditioned with CALGON BOUQUET. You'll call it "Heavenly." Your bath water feels wonderfully "silly"; your ordinary bath soap lathers luxuriously, rinses away cleanly. Nothing relaxes me like a Calgon Bouquet bath, and, furthermore, it leaves no "bathtub ring." If you keep half as busy as I, you owe yourself the inexpensive luxury of a daily Calgon Bouquet bath. P.S.—and it doesn't need to be at four o'clock!

Story 'Nonsense'

Court Raps Victim

A Duncan girl's description of a beating she received from her fiancé was described as "nonsense" by a city police court magistrate yesterday.

Lila Bedwell claimed boy friend Lazo Balogh, also of Duncan, slapped her only once and held her arm. She denied police evidence that Balogh, charged with assault, struck her repeatedly in the face with his clenched fist.

'A REAL PROBLEM'

Magistrate William Ostler said such witnesses as Miss Bedwell posed a "real problem" for police officers, who rescue people in these circumstances then have them come along and tell such nonsense.

He said Miss Bedwell was "obviously not telling the truth."

Police sergeant Brian Ferguson testified a citizen had reported the brawl between the couple to police.

PUNCHES DOOR

The officer said he arrived at Herald Street near Douglas and saw the accused pushing the door of a car and punching Miss Bedwell in the face.

He said he placed Balogh under arrest.

Through an interpreter, Balogh, who pleaded guilty, apologized to the court and to the police officers who were called to the fracas.

'FOR BEHAVIOR'

"Are you apologizing for your behavior? For struggling and resisting them?" queried prosecutor Angus Smith.

"Yes," replied the accused.

The prosecutor said Balogh's previous record showed a conviction in 1960 for assault causing actual bodily harm. He was sentenced to four months imprisonment.

WITH WRENCH

The prosecutor took strong exception to a remark by defence counsel David Hummel that such "semi-domestic" fights are "often regarded, at least by the prosecution in this city, as semi-private matters."

AN OFFENCE

Magistrate Ostler said assault was an offence under the Criminal Code and could hardly be dealt with as Mr. Hummel suggested.

Defence counsel had urged leniency in that a prison sentence would cost Balogh his job and "upset" the couple's marriage plans.

"I would have thought their marriage plans would have been terminated by this time," said Magistrate Ostler. He remanded Balogh one week for a pre-sentence probation report.

Play Plan Point Missed?

By IAN STREET

Municipal leaders appear to have "entirely missed the implications" of the recreation report turned down by the intermunicipal committee Tuesday, a spokesman for the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria said yesterday.

Council president Dr. Roy Watson expressed "deep regret" at the failure of the intermunicipal body to endorse any of the recommendations contained in the bulky report.

He said it apparently had escaped the notice of the intermunicipal committee that the purpose of establishing one combined parks and recreation commission for the four municipalities would not under any circumstances be to organize people's play for them.

Dr. Watson added: "The joint commission—the major recommendation of the report—would provide leadership to assist all types of recreational groups to do things better for themselves and to ensure maximum use of all available facilities."

"Victoria is the only major city in Canada without a recreation commission or its equivalent staffed by professional people," Dr. Watson said.

A Joint Commission

Prof. Fred Martens said the commission must be a joint one serving all Greater Victoria because recreational needs overlap artificial municipal boundaries.

He was chairman of the committee which spent 18 months conducting a survey of all aspects of recreation in Greater Victoria before writing the report.

It showed, Prof. Martens said, the community as a whole was fortunate in the number of private organizations and volunteers offering some form of recreational program.

He added, however, "there are many gaps and no little chaos and confusion due to lack of co-ordination and leadership."

This situation can only be rectified by "a properly organized and adequately staffed public authority," said Prof. Martens.

Dr. Watson said the joint commission would comprise representatives of the four local municipalities plus "three or four persons trained and experienced in the field of recreation."

Supplement Personnel

The latter group, he said, would "supplement the excellent personnel presently administering parks and playing facilities."

The council president said he agreed with views expressed by Mayor R. B. Wilson and Esquimalt Coun. G. K. Samson every effort should be made to put existing facilities to fuller use.

Dr. Watson doubted if this could be accomplished without some central leadership and administration.

He said the community welfare council has already sought a meeting with Greater Victoria school board to discuss wider use of school facilities for recreation.

In the past, however, Dr. Watson said, one of the problems of dealing with school boards was the lack of any single authority with whom suitable arrangements could be made for financing and supervising such a program.

Hardest hit by the decision to take no action on the recreation report, said Prof. Martens, will be the senior citizens and other groups needing assistance for the physically handicapped.

He said the Silver Threads Service is finding its present facilities "entirely inadequate" and warned that some new centre for senior citizens will have to be built "by someone in the near future."

Fire Hazard Moves Toward Extreme As Five Acres Burn

The fire hazard throughout the Vancouver forest district is steadily worsening, a B.C. Forest Service spokesman said yesterday.

But he added it was still far from the point where even partial closures would be enforced.

"Of course if a lot of people suddenly got careless, we might have an extreme situation on our hands," said the officer.

He said certain areas of the district had already moved from the high hazard into the "extreme" category.

One such area, he said, was Langford, where suppression crews from the ranger station have doused three spot grass fires in the past two days.

The lack of "canopy" protection of dense forest in that area has turned Langford's meadow grass into tinder. All three fires quelled by suppression crews are believed to have started from either children playing with matches or careless smokers.

Six forest fires are burning in the district, the worst a spreading five-acre blaze in logging slash west of Lund on the mainland.

The forest service official said overnight moisture recovery in the district was "excellent."

Satellite Due at 11:26

'Junkyard Fugitive' Over City Tonight

Victorians who are showing renewed interest in a battered, two-year-old U.S. satellite which has been making regular appearances in local skies recently will probably be able to see it again tonight around 11:26 daylight time.

Victoria observatory officials have identified the object seen by many Victorians last week as Echo I, launched by the U.S. space program in August, 1960, as part of a communications experiment.

Echo I passes over Victoria about every two hours but can usually only be seen during the darkest period of the night.

Its orbital timetable advances about 46 minutes per day so if an observer misses at 11:26 tonight he can try again about three-quarters of an hour earlier tomorrow.

Observatory officials say the word from space tracking stations is that Echo I is beginning to look like a fugitive from a junkyard.

Visual observations have shown that the rigors of meteorites and space debris have taken their toll and pounded Echo I out of its once-spherical form.

Motel Access Cost $25,000

Officials Block Private Road

By JACK FRY

A View Royal motel operator who spent $25,000 building a private road yesterday saw it blocked off with $10 worth of wooden posts — compliments of the B.C. department of highways.

In a bid to draw customers from the Trans-Canada Highway, five miles west of Victoria, Herbert Plasterer, owner of the Canadian Crest Motel at 340 Island Highway, built a road connecting routes 1 and 1A.

STURDY POSTS

Yesterday the highways department planted five sturdy posts across the Trans-Canada entrance to Mr. Plasterer's new road.

The angry motel operator called a lawyer and vowed he will take the case to court if necessary.

Highways department officials said Mr. Plasterer's road was blocked because it constituted illegal access to the Trans-Canada Highway.

BOW BOILS UP

The row apparently boiled up over the motel man's efforts to publicize his View Royal establishment by erecting a series of signs beside the Trans-Canada Highway on the city-side of the Thetis overpass.

There were signs reading "Welcome to Victoria," "Motel 500 yards," "private property," "Canadian Crest," "56 and up" and "vacancy," said Mr. Plasterer.

MEETINGS, LETTERS

Meetings took place between highways officials and the motel operator, followed by correspondence.

Finally, the new access road was blocked by the highway department.

The motel operator said yesterday the only times his motel on Highway 1A is filled are those occasions when city motels are overflowing and turning customers away.

TAP VISITORS

He said he decided to tap visitors coming into the city by putting the road through to the Trans-Canada. In order to do this, he purchased two properties adjacent to the Trans-Canada for $20,000, running his $5,000 road through one and putting signs on both.

But highways officials said Mr. Plasterer had no permit for either the road or the signs and both were infractions of provincial laws.

NEVER ZONED

They also said the two Trans-Canada properties purchased by Mr. Plasterer were never zoned for commercial use by the planning body which governs that portion of unorganized territory.

Mr. Plasterer contended he had received verbal approval for his plans from the late district engineer A. F. Friesen, who was killed May 24 this year in an airplane crash at Patricia Bay Airport.

SPEND $25,000?

"Do you think I would spend $25,000 on this extra land without finding out first whether I could use it?" he asked.

Mr. Plasterer said his legal adviser will make representations to the provincial government to have the roadblock lifted.

Smooth 'Mess'

Giant Pageant Dressing Up For Big Test

The 1,000-strong cast of the giant Victoria centennial pageant had its second-to-last rehearsal last night, and director Dudley Remus found plenty of bugs to iron out but told cast members they looked great.

It was the first dress rehearsal and only the second time the cast had run through the show as a whole. The pageant gets one more dress rehearsal tonight then cast members get tomorrow off in anticipation of opening night Saturday.

SMOOTH 'MESS'

Tuesday night was the first time the various skits making up the pageant had been run through as one whole pageant, and Mr. Remus said what should have been "a mess" went off almost miraculously smoothly.

This, he said, in effect put rehearsals three days ahead of schedule.

QUEEN PLAYS SELF

Last night's was the first rehearsal at which Centennial Queen Carol Ann Howay portrayed herself. She was informed in the wee small hours July 25-Aug. 4.

of yesterday she had been chosen queen.

Last night Mr. Remus charged around Royal Athletic Park with a megaphone criticizing the cast then retreated to the overhead press box where he sat beside the show's eight narrators getting a bird's eye view and commenting over a loudspeaker system.

FINER POINTS

He'd got his cast to the stage that he could concentrate on the finer points such as co-ordination and spacing.

He said pageant organizers still are searching for bicycles built-for-two and convertible autos.

Meanwhile, people have been streaming into the centennial office to exchange advance-sale tickets for gate passes. This can be done at the gate by those wishing to risk standing room only. The show runs from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. July 28-Aug. 4.

Road Extension To Link Mayfair

Road construction already underway to form part of Victoria's proposed $1,000,000 Blanshard Street extension project will also carry the major traffic load to and from the new Mayfair shopping centre, a city hall spokesman said yesterday.

Ald. Michael Griffin said the new road link from the present dead-end of Rose Street to Tolmie, with an extension of Finlayson linking it to Douglas, is vital to the development of the $6,980,000 shopping centre due to open in October, 1963. (See picture, Page 2.)

DOESN'T KNOW

The city streets and traffic chairman said he didn't know how some aldermen could be quoted by another newspaper as saying they were surprised work had started.

"This work was discussed at great length by city council last spring and costs (some $100,000) are included in the city budget," Ald. Griffin said.

1,700 CARS DAILY

He added: "We knew when the new shopping centre was approved several months ago that it was estimated 1,700 cars daily would be added to normal traffic in the area."

"Not by the farthest stretch of imagination could Douglas Street handle that additional amount of traffic."

"When council approved the shopping centre it gave tacit approval to this section of the Blanshard extension and in fact gave approval in principle to the whole thundering project."

BUSY BULLDOZERS

Bulldozers have been busy for the past week grading the 80-foot right-of-way cutting through Topaz Park from the present end of Rose Street.

It will link up Tolmie at the border of the city. Finlayson will also be extended to provide a new link with Douglas and what engineers term a "semi-cloverleaf" interchange built where it meets the new section of the Blanshard extension.

The new road will flank the east side of the new Mayfair shopping centre.

60 FEET WIDE

City engineer James Garnett said the new roadway will be 60 feet wide but the eventual width of Blanshard Street extension when it is fully developed will be 120 feet.

Total estimated cost is $1,000,000.

Girl's Molester Sought in City

City police are searching for a youth who savagely attacked a 21-year-old girl shortly after midnight yesterday.

The woman, whose screams drove off the attacker, told police she was struck in the stomach twice by her assailant and knocked to the ground.

She said she was walking home in the 1000 block Pemberton when the attacker, described as about 20 years of age, walked up to her and struck her.

She said he put his hand over her mouth when she screamed. She suffered bruises to the leg and arm when she was knocked down.

Escaped Convict Still at Large

Police have drawn a blank in their search for a 29-year-old convict, who escaped from the William Head minimum security prison a week ago.

Still at large is Peter Richard Solomon, who was serving a three-year sentence for breaking and entering.

Prison officials say Solomon was worried about his wife's health.

He walked away from the prison while mowing a lawn around 4 p.m. on July 18. Solomon was wearing grey denim prison clothes.

450 Families to Vote

Secret Ballot Slated For Big Play Centre

A secret ballot to determine the future of a proposed $113,000 community recreation centre in the Belmont naval housing area will be held there early in September.

Some 450 families in the area will vote on the proposal to finance the project through a $50,000 government grant and a $63,000 government loan repayable at $2 per month per family on a payroll deduction system.

The recreation centre would contain sports facilities, hobby shops, a bowling alley and meeting rooms.

Young Secreds Meeting Today

The Greater Victoria Young Social Credit Association will meet today at the house of Elmer McEwen, 1005 Davenport, at 8 p.m. All interested are welcome.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I read your column every day and we talk about it. Now I have a question I would like you to settle. Please print it so she can see your answer in black and white.

I am a member of a labor union. I like to wear my union button at all times because I'm proud of it. My wife says I should not wear a celluloid button with a number on it when we go out socially—especially to church. She claims it looks out of place and embarrasses her.

I say a labor union button is a badge of honor and it is never out of place. After all, in some countries people can't join labor unions and I'm proud to have the privilege. Please decide who is right—UNION MAN.

Dear man: It's wonderful to be so proud of your union badge that you want to wear it everywhere, but I agree with your wife.

There's a time and a place for everything. Freedom to worship is also a privilege denied to people in some countries. But would you wear a badge to your next union meeting reading "I am a Lutheran"?

Wearing a union badge to church or social gatherings adds up to the same thing. It would not be wrong—just out of place.

sound awful, but if you met me in person I'm sure you'd find me quite nice.

I married my husband ten years ago. Three years later I divorced him because we always seemed to be fighting. One year later I married another man and my ex-husband married another woman. His marriage lasted two months and mine lasted three months. We agreed that we had both remarried out of spite. Within six months we were back together again as man and wife.

Eight months later we were fighting just like before. I put up with it for three years and then I divorced him. We could not stand to be apart and the kids kept crying for their Daddy, so I remarried him. Everything was fine until three months ago. Now we are fighting again and I want to unload him for good. But I'm afraid to take the step because of what has happened in the past. Please tell me what to do—AGATHA.

Dear Agatha: Some people can't get along with each other or without each other. You two are chronic battlers with a basic need for someone to fight with. Enlist the aid of a third party to referee the big ones instead of running to the divorce court. But stay married.

Wines Are Famous

All of Italy contributes to the fame of Italian wines. There are many varieties—each with its own special merits. A certain tempting taste, a subtle bouquet, an enchanting color. Truly, Italian wines capture all the allurements of this sunny clime.

Many of us, perhaps, first became familiar with Italian wines through the excellence of Italian vermouths. Vermouth, a wine from the Piedmont vineyards, was originally created in the city of Turin in 1766. There are two different varieties of vermouth—the dry and the sweet, both infused with choice aromatic herbs.

The dry vermouth is the necessary ingredient in the Martini cocktail. The sweet vermouth has its important place in the Manhattan cocktail. Both are called for, too, in other mixed drinks.

Today, more and more, Canadians are enjoying Italian vermouths as an appetizing, before-meal aperitif—plain or "on-the-rocks." These vermouths offer pleasant relaxation before dinner as well as during the social hour.

Many Canadian homemakers have also discovered that the herbs that lend Italian vermouth their distinction, impart an exquisite and delicate flavor to a host of recipes.

Much of what we have said about the excellence of Italian vermouths applies equally to the hundreds of other wines from that fortunate country. Each of its regions contributes to the varieties from which you may choose—according to the occasion and your pleasure.

The result: red, white and rose wines, sweet or dry wines, table wines and dessert wines, sparkling Italian wines and liqueurs—many famed even before the glory of ancient Rome.

Washing shell eggs may cause them to spoil quicker because it removes the natural protective coating.

Home Preserving Leads with Peach

A survey during which nearly one thousand housewives in western Canada were personally contacted shows that 70%—seven out of every 10—did some home-preserving or canning during the last fruit season.

A higher percentage of country women put down home preserves than do city women, the survey shows, nevertheless more than half the city housewives do engage in home preserving too.

One of the unexpected answers turned up by the survey is that home preserving cuts across all income brackets—almost the same percentage of housewives at all social and economic levels do engage in home preserving activities at some point during the year.

The most popular fruit among all women, both urban and rural, for home preserving is the peach. This is closely followed by pears and apricots in all parts of the four western provinces. These are far and away the most popular of any fruit or berry for home preserving.

Sixty-one percent of the hundreds of women spoken to said they did as much or more home preserving as they ever did, while 39% said they did less. Trend clearly revealed was that women do more home canning as their families grow, and less as children reach maturity and leave home.

Reasons given for engaging in home canning at all were mostly: "We prefer the taste," "my family likes it," or "economy." Many women added that home preserves are "handy to have for quick desserts in winter," and "when we do it ourselves we know it is top quality." Several said it gives them a "sense of accomplishment."

The survey, conducted by a reputable market research organization on behalf of the Canadian fruit growers, was made in order to find out how much home preserving was being done. The majority of housewives mention quantities between one and two dozen quarts, while a significant percentage said they put down more than 50 quarts of various fruits.

Most vegetables supply more vitamins and minerals when eaten raw, since they lose part of their nutrients in cooking.

Lemon-fruit parfait is a delicious gelatin dessert, rich due to the addition of egg yolks and fluffy with beaten egg whites.

Summer Scene Stealer

Time—summer. Place—your porch or patio. Scene—you, reclining in a chair, enjoying a cool parfait.

Fresh lemon juice gives it its cooling flavor and sugared berries (either fresh or frozen) piled between the layers and on top, adds to its taste appeal. A dollop of whipped cream completes the picture.

Here is the recipe for a sure-fire summer scene stealer—Lemon-Fruit Parfait.

LEMON-FRUIT PARFAIT

One envelope unflavored gelatin, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, separated, 1 1/2 cups milk, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 pint sugared fruit.

Combine gelatin, 1/2 cup sugar, salt, slightly beaten egg yolks and milk. Cook over low heat until mixture thickens. Remove from heat and slowly add lemon juice. Cool. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Beat egg whites until fluffy. Slowly add 1/2 cup sugar and continue to beat until stiff. Fold lemon mixture into egg whites. Spoon into parfait glasses alternately with fruit. Top with whipped cream. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

For the Blind

More Than 200 at Party

It was a beautiful day for the garden party yesterday held at the home of H. V. Hummel, 1020 St. Charles, for the blind persons of Victoria.

The affair, arranged by the Auxiliary to the CNIB was attended by more than 200 people. The HMCS Naden band played selections throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. R. O. Taylor, Auxiliary president, received the guests with convener, Mrs. Hummel and Mrs. Douglas MacMillan. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Scurrell, Mr. and Mrs. F. Messerschmidt, Lady Drayton, Miss Kathleen Agnew, Mr. and Mrs. E. Bretell, Major and Mrs. S. Okell, Mrs. V. M. Edwards, Miss I. Deakin, Mrs. Ian Ross, and Mr. and Mrs. Milligan.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Henly, 1722 Bay Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Marcia Dorothy, to Mr. Daniel Bernard Maloney, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Maloney, 2705 Prior Street. The wedding will take place Saturday, August 18, at 11 a.m. at St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Jacura, 1452 Mount Douglas Crossroad, announce the engagement of their daughter Elinor Gladys, to Mr. Boris Nizic, son of Mr. Nikola Nizic of Zadar, Yugoslavia, and the late Mr. Simeon Nizic. The wedding will take place on Friday, August 10, at 8 p.m. in St. Aidan's United Church, with the Rev. A. G. McLeod officiating. (Photo by Gibson's Studio.)

Handicrafts On Display At Exhibition

Live demonstrations featuring everything from Ukrainian Easter egg decorating to puppet making will be Home Arts Building highlights at this year's Pacific National Exhibition. All will be staged in the B.C. Crafts Booth in the Home Arts Building during the Aug. 18-Sept. 3 fair. In addition there will be displays of weaving, pottery, hat trimming, copperwork, jewelry making, smoking, woodcarving and ceramic sculpture.

Gail Morrison Wed In First United

A beautiful gown of white peau de sole fashioned on princess lines was chosen by Caroline Gail Morrison, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Mackenzie Morrison, for her marriage to Mr. Bruce Frederick Fraser, son of Judge and Mrs. G. W. Bruce Fraser of Vancouver. The skirt was swept up at the back and held by two peau de sole roses before falling to a slight train. Hand made Swiss lace applique enhanced the front panel. Her short veil of illusion was held by a crown of peau de sole roses. For something old she carried a Venetian lace handkerchief, gift of the groom's aunt. Her pearl necklace was the gift of the groom. Yellow roses and stephanotis were in the bouquet.

Baskets of white stocks and yellow chrysanthemums decorated First United Church for the afternoon ceremony. Clusters of white heather marked the pews. Rev. Dr. R. M. Thompson officiated and Mr. Alan Husband sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love." The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Wendy Sanderson, maid of honor and bridesmaid, Miss Anne Mayhew and Miss Lynne Mercer wore identical dresses of gold silk shantung styled with bloused bodice, low scooped back and flared skirt. Their picture hats were trimmed with toning net and a large rose. Crescent shaped bouquets were of white carnations.

Bridal Shower

Miss Lois Peters, August bride-elect, was honored at a cup and saucer shower recently. The shower, given by Miss Lynne Stewart, was held at the Princess Mary. Miss Peters was presented with a pink orchid corsage; the bride's mother, Mrs. E. Peters, relieved yellow carnations, and the groom's mother, pink carnations. Mrs. Peters poured. Guests included Miss Lynne Stewart, Mrs. Ruth Stewart, Mrs. Ivy Ann Stewart, Mrs. Myrna Eardley, Mrs. E. Peters, Mrs. Francis Graham, Mrs. S. Cambrey, and Mrs. Jenny Cambrey.

Onions, centre, clowns it up with two of the six fellow members of Carson and Barnes clown alley.—(Clown House photo.)

Professor Onions and Circus Follow Sawdust Trail to City

It is a tradition in the circus that the show must go on. Rebuffed by city hall last week because its proposed run would clash with the centennial pageant, the three-ring Carson and Barnes Circus came back swinging and has now been booked into Victoria West Park Aug. 11 to 18.

The contract was signed yesterday at Centennial headquarters, and allows the circus to run at the same time as the RCMP musical ride. It lays claim to having the only professor of geography in the business as its feature clown.

Onions—Dr. Charles Boas at the University of Michigan where he lectured for seven and a half years—ran away to join the circus last summer. With him on the sawdust trail are his wife and four children, aged from one to six years.

This will be his second visit to Canada's west coast. The last time it was as a lecturer at the University of British Columbia summer session in 1960. The 37-year-old Onions, who doubles as school master for the circus' 13 children, has revived such oldtime acts as the clown band and the fire wagon.

To give them authenticity he does a great deal of research into what the circus was like in past days. Along with the clowns there will be animal acts, trapeze artists and a Wild West show. The circus is scheduled to play at other Vancouver Island points after Victoria.

Police Hold Stolen Art

Three 19th Century paintings stolen last week from the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, are being held by Vancouver RCMP officers pending further investigation. They were stolen from the gallery last Thursday.

Sandbox Art Display Open

More than a half-ton of sand, packed up to the third floor of Eaton's this week, has been moulded into duplicates of the two winning exhibits in this year's Victoria Parks Department-sponsored sandbox modelling contest.

Models of a wooded wonderland at Beaver Lake by students of Banfield Park and the centennial dollar by Beacon Hill Park sand sculptors may be seen today, Friday and Saturday.

Spectators will be invited to choose a winner by secret ballot.

Boy Plucked From Death In Esquimalt

An Esquimalt policeman used a fire truck ladder to rescue a 12-year-old boy from a ledge on the face of the cliff at Fleming Beach yesterday. Gordon Boudreau, of 514 Joffre, became trapped on the ledge 25 feet from the base of the cliff when he tried to scale the 40-foot heights. "He was shaking a bit, but otherwise he wasn't hurt," said Const. Robert Duncan, who climbed the ladder to lift the Boudreau boy to safety.

Now—Campbell Quality comes to dry soup mixes!

New Red Kettle Dry Soup Mixes—in cans from Campbell's

Exclusive new can—created especially to protect soup mix flavour best!

- It's hermetically sealed.
- Resists the tears and punctures that let flavour leak out.
- No other dry soup mix is packaged this way.
- Comes 2 cans to the carton, and each can makes enough for the average family—Noodle: 32 ounces (4 cups) All other Red Kettle kinds: 24 ounces (3 cups).

The best soups you can make from a dry soup mix—brought to you in special cans that protect soup mix flavour best!

It took all the soup-making skills the Campbell Soup Chefs have picked up in 64 years, plus several new ones, to make these new Red Kettle Soups possible.

For example, a new Freeze-Drying method (see below) enables us to put actual pieces of chicken and mushroom right into the mixes.

To be sure these new dry soup mixes reach you as full of flavour as when we make them, we put them, not in envelopes, but in special air-tight cans. These protect soup mix flavour better than was ever possible before.

Try new Red Kettle Soup Mixes soon. Taste the difference Campbell Quality makes.

What in the world is Freeze-Drying?

Perhaps you have read about this revolutionary new process. With new Freeze-Drying, the food is first frozen, then it is dried in a vacuum.

As a result, the moisture is taken away not as water, but as vapour. This leaves almost all the natural flavour still intact.

Try new Red Kettle Soup Mixes—

Noodle

with real chicken stock

You may have tried this kind of soup mix before—now see what a difference there is when the Campbell Soup Chefs make it with real chicken stock.

Chicken Noodle

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, F.R.S.

One of the most vexing problems to arise when planning a new garden is what to do about a sloping bank. Grass is seldom very satisfactory except on easy slopes, for seed washes out before it can become established. You can always sod, of course, pegging the sods to prevent their slipping, but mowing a bank is an exasperating business and it isn't easy to keep the soil properly moistened on steeply sloping ground.

If you have plenty of leisure time and a bright green thumb, a good solution is to make a rock garden out of your problem bank. Nothing could be more beautiful nor offer more scope for experiment with fascinating dwarf plants, but let's face it—a rock garden requires more time and finicky attention than any other feature in the landscape.

Each pocket needs a special soil mixture to suit the particular needs of its occupant—gritty stuff for one, leafmould for another, peaty soil for the acid-loving kinds and limestone chips for those that require a high-lime diet. The plants also spread fairly rapidly, requiring periodic lifting and dividing, and of course, all the weeding has to be done the hard way.

Building a proper rock garden requires an artistic eye, a strong back and a healthy bank account. Really big rocks are needed, for nothing looks more unnatural than an earth bank studded with stones and small boulders, like raising in a plum pudding. These big rocks are expensive and need a lot of man-handling—each one should be buried with one-half to three-quarters of its bulk below ground and with its upper surface tilted slightly backward to catch and drain the rain back into the pockets of soil.

Try to arrange your rocks in small terrace-like groups, like the outcroppings of rock in nature. This looks far more natural and certainly much more appealing to the eye than just sticking the rocks in every which way.

If the idea of all this heavy labor terrifies you as it does me—my own modest rock garden is tucked into natural outcroppings of rock—a labor-saving alternative is to plant up your bank with some dwarf shrubs and let nature take her course. Fortunately there are some grand subjects for this purpose—ground-hugging shrubs which will spread and suppress weeds.

The brooms are ideal for this purpose, as they revel in dryish sun-baked soil. Common broom is too tall for a ground cover, of course, but the prostrate broom, Cytissus decumbens, lies flat on the ground, seldom rising higher than four inches, and it covers itself with golden pea flowers in June and July.

The Canby pachistima is a good bet, making a tiny evergreen shrub seldom more than nine inches tall and so hardy it can be grown in Prince George. It is valued more for its glossy foliage and its spreading habit than for its insignificant flowers. Hypericum or St. John's Wort, often incorrectly called Rose of Sharon, revels in full sun and dryish soil, covering itself with golden flowers sporting prominent, brush-like stamens.

A typical lazy gardener's treatment of a problem bank is to stick a few slips of Virginia creeper in it. This vine will grow anywhere and is actually happier loading on a sloping bank than pushing up a vertical wall. The foliage, which has an unfortunate resemblance to poison ivy, turns a brilliant scarlet in the fall.

ART BUCHWALD Flies to a Show

The Cowboys in the Sky

The viewing of films on an airplane can be a most pleasant experience. Recently on a trip from France to the United States we called up TWA, who is the only one showing films on the Atlantic run, and asked them what was playing on their flight to America on a particular day.

The girl replied, "Our noon flight is showing 'Lonely Are the Brave,' our 3 o'clock flight is showing 'Road to Hong Kong,' and our evening flight is featuring 'The Miracle Worker'."

"Who's in 'Lonely Are the Brave'?" we asked her. "Kirk Douglas," she replied. "It's a cowboy film and they say it's quite good. Our stewardesses feel that 'Road to Hong Kong' is wanting, but they give a good rating to 'The Miracle Worker' mainly because of the performances."

"Then you would recommend 'Lonely Are the Brave'?" "It depends what you want out of a film, but I should think you'd enjoy it. When in doubt we always recommend our flights featuring Westerns."

"Very good," we said, "how much is it?"

"Four hundred and seventy dollars, but that's with wide screen."

"Are the other films any cheaper?"

"No, I'm sorry, $470 is the standard price, but all films are first run."

"What are they showing in tourist class?"

"Nothing. The movies are only for first class passengers. The tourist passengers look at each other's heads."

"Well, put me down for 'Lonely Are the Brave.' It seems a fitting picture to fly by."

When we got on board, the usherette—we mean the stewardess—showed us to our seat. There was an excitement in the first-class cabin such as you only feel at a premiere or the opening of a film festival.

All the first class passengers were talking about the picture. Some wondered whether they should have waited for "The Miracle Worker" on the 6 o'clock flight; others said they were tempted to wait two days later for "La Dolce Vita," but the majority were willing to take their luck with Kirk Douglas. If we didn't like it we could always leave, or could we?

We gulped down our first class dinner in less than three hours, the shades were drawn, a hush fell over the cabin, the screen came down, and suddenly at 35,000 feet we were watching our first film aboard an airliner.

The minute we saw Kirk Douglas and his horse we forgot everything and for the next two hours we sat entranced watching him get chased across the screen by the sheriff and a posse of men who were out for his skin.

The time flew by and before we knew it we were flying over Boston on our descent to Idlewild Airport. It was $470 well spent.

Two weeks later we were ready to return, but this time we didn't bother to inquire what was playing. We knew we could trust TWA. So when we got on board we just sat back and relaxed. The house lights dimmed, the screen came down, and suddenly who should appear on the screen but Kirk Douglas and his damn horse! Our flight was featuring "Lonely Are the Brave."

As soon as we landed we demanded a refund, but they refused to give it to us.

There is something in international airline regulations that forbids a refund to the passenger if he's seen the picture already.

But at least we have one distinction. We're the only filmgoers who ever paid $910 to see a black-and-white motion picture on a small screen at 35,000 feet.

They All Want Sophia

Says

Sheilah Graham

LOREN

ROME (NANA) — Sophia Loren has more movie offers than she can possibly accept. The most interesting, I think, is Frank Capra's for Oscar-winner Sophia to star in "Anna Karenina," to be filmed in Russia.

"Also," a relaxed Sophia told me during the two-day filming at Cinecitta here of "Condemned of Altona." "I will do 'Boccaccio 70' for my husband Carlo Ponti, with Anita Ekberg, Emya Schneider and the same three directors of 'Boccaccio 70'. Then there is 'Of Human Bondage' probably with Laurence Harvey; 'The Star Cane' for de Mica, and maybe 'Children of Sanches' in Mexico, also for de Sica."

Robert Wagner, who plays a German soldier in "Altona," is going to Spain when he finishes the picture. "For a vacation and to make a picture there," R. J. has leased the home in Rome of the Italian ambassador to Japan, and is living in kingly style.

Martina Mercouri and Jules Dassin hired a big yacht and gave a great big party off the coast of Greece, and it looked like "Never on Sunday" when Robert Preston did a Greek dance that rocked the craft. Martina's husband was not in evidence, but his two children from a previous marriage were there.

Mickey Hargitay is most upset at the constant photos in the newspapers of wife Jayne Mansfield with the gorgeous hunk of man, Enrique Bonina, who is production assistant on Jayne's "Panic Button." Jayne has reacted to Rome the way Cleo reacted to Marc Antony. Mickey has been going around asking people, "What am I going to do?" I could tell him, but this is something he must figure out himself.

You see everything on the via Veneto, including Annette Stroyberg Vadim, leaping from a car in pink linen chle decollete, blonde hair piled high in egg beaten style, and dashing down the street to catch up, no doubt, with Vittorio Gassman.

I'm wondering whether Grace Kelly really has given up her movie ambitions. Last week a well-known photographer took off from Rome with all his camera equipment, to see Her Grace. Object: to make a series of "stills."

Sidney Fottler will star in "The Land Barons," to be filmed in Ethiopia. Orson Welles would be perfect for the other leading role. The former wonder boy is currently in Paris editing his movie with Tony Perkins, "The Trial."

Pamela Tiffin, bored with the long weekend in Vienna where she is starring with Hugh O'Brian in "Champagne Flight," flew to Rome for some fun. And Frankie Avalon is here after a co-starring role in "Valley of the Swords" in Spain.

Choose from 9' and 12' Widths

A • For light traffic areas,	Sale 8<sup>88</sup> sq. yard
B • For medium traffic areas,	Sale 9<sup>88</sup> sq. yard
C • For heavy traffic areas,	Sale 11<sup>88</sup> sq. yard

Different traffic areas in your home demand different weights in carpeting. Why pay more than you need to for carpeting in an area that doesn't get much wear? And, why put down carpeting in often-used areas that won't wear well, and will consequently cost you more in the long run? Now the Bay offers you 3 weights in luxurious all-wool imported broadloom, so you can choose the one which suits your needs best. This hardtwist broadloom has countless air pockets to insulate your floors, resists soil but cleans easily when necessary. It's wonderfully resilient—bounces back after crushing, is economical because it gives years of service!

Choose from sandalwood, rose, mushroom, cocoa, and other popular decorator shades. See it Thursday in the floor covering department, 4th floor.

Giant Cruiser Race on Saturday

More than 100 power cruisers are expected to make the run from Cadboro Bay to Seattle Saturday in the world's biggest predicted-log cruiser race.

Commodore Hamilton Smith of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, host club for this year's race, said the cruisers may range in size from 22 feet long to as long as 100 feet. The majority would be in the 30-40-foot range. About 25 would be Canadian.

In past years the race has usually been run from Puget Sound to a Canadian port, frequently Nanaimo. This year the International Power Boat Association has reversed the direction of the course and shortened it so boaters can arrive at the world's fair in the afternoon.

Object of the race is to run the approximately 100-mile course as close as possible to a pre-calculated timetable.

Skippers must chart their courses and speeds before departure to arrive at four intermediate checkpoints, and at Seattle, in the designated time. Nevertheless, Commodore Smith predicted the winning boats' times will be off less than two per cent.

And errors don't cancel each other out. If a skipper is five minutes too fast to one checkpoint and five minutes too slow to the next, the total penalty is 10 minutes, not zero.

The boats will be divided into five classes according to speed. The slowest will leave Cadboro Bay about 2 a.m. and other boats will leave at intervals up to about noon.

Gallery To Auction Local Art

More than 100 paintings by Victoria artists will be auctioned at the Cypress Galleries on Fort Street at 8 p.m. today.

Purpose of the auction, expected to become an annual event, is to provide initial operating funds for the gallery, operated by a non-profit organization for artists to exhibit and sell their work.

Chinatown to Get 'Orient's Mysteries'

A syndicate of Chinese-Canadian businessmen in Victoria plans to add the mysteries of the Orient to the city's tourist attractions.

A spokesman for the group said an oriental museum and bazaar in Victoria's Chinatown is scheduled to open more than a month from now but in time to catch the tail-end of Victoria's tourist season.

Preliminary work is already under way at the museum's two-storey premises at the corner of Government and Herald.

Details of the group's plans have not been disclosed but it is understood exhibits illustrating many of the mysteries of China and other oriental countries will be combined with stalls where visitors will be able to buy oriental articles.

Doctors' Choice Medicare Shunned By 100

SASKATOON (CP) — Private practice outside the Medical Care Insurance Act was the choice of more than 100 Regina district doctors, members of the Regina and District Medical Society, who made their decision Tuesday night.

It was the first reported concerted decision by doctors to shun the provincial medical care plan since settlement of the dispute.

Under the legislation governing the provincial plan, it will still be up to patients to decide whether to seek reimbursement for medical expenses.

REIMBURSEMENT

If the patient's personal physician is not enrolled under the provincial plan, the patient may seek reimbursement from the Medical Care Insurance Commission.

Meanwhile the province's emergency care program was being dismantled Wednesday and the vice-president of the Saskatchewan Keep Our Doctors Committee said he was resigning.

SPECIAL SESSION

The move came in the wake of settlement Monday of the medical care dispute between the College of Physicians and Surgeons and the provincial government. Doctors, who boycotted the provincial medical care plan after it was implemented July 1, returned to work and the government promised a special session of the legislature to amend the act in line with Monday's agreement.

GUARANTEE CHOICE. The agreement guaranteed doctors a choice of working under the medical care act or outside it in varying degrees. Indications Wednesday were that the long boycott and the bitter dispute over the province's medical care plan had ended.

Dr. J. B. Meabur, president of the Regina Medical Society, said the permanent loss of doctors could not yet be permanently established.

Dr. Meabur said doctors who attended Tuesday night's meeting in Regina decided that they will urge their patients to retain medical coverage with voluntary prepaid agencies.

He said enrolment fees in the voluntary agencies will not exceed $4 a year per family — just enough to cover the cost of administration.

Macmillan to Face Labor-Sponsored No-Confidence Bid

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Macmillan Wednesday continued an apparently successful campaign to restore confidence in his government.

But today he will face disgruntled members of his own party as well as open opposition from across the floor when Parliament debates a Labor opposition motion to unseat the Conservatives.

fied his backbenchers at a luncheon Wednesday.

PROMINENT VIKING

Selwyn Lloyd, former chancellor of the exchequer, was the most prominent of cabinet members to fall under the Macmillan axe July 13 and major economic policy changes are to be expected. Most observers predict a national wages board, measures to protect consumers and some means of giving workers a sense of security and status.

With his backbenchers calmed as much as possible and encouraged by economic announcements Macmillan will then turn to the powerful trade unions.

Royal Navy Chinese Sent to Jail

LONDON (Reuters) — Three Chinese employed aboard a British cruiser were jailed for terms from one to five years here Wednesday for possessing opium and heroin worth £325,000.

Prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones said the drugs were found on the cruiser Belfast on a voyage from the Far East to San Francisco.

FOR AMERICANS

Griffith-Jones said there was no doubt that most of the drugs were "destined for either South or North America."

The accused, all from Hong Kong, were Yang Hai Lou, 41; Ah Lee Wong, 38; and Kan Ping Kwok, 28—sentenced to one, four and five years respectively.

Pageant Set to Go

The 1,000-strong cast of Victoria's centennial pageant practises grand finale at last night's dress rehearsal. Including ethnic groups, representatives of organizations and many others, cast reached high stage of efficiency by this first dress run-through and there's still another rehearsal tonight. Show opens Saturday and runs to Aug. 4. People have been advised to get tickets early to be sure of place.—(Karl Spreitz photo.)

Glenn, Senators Orbit in Face Of Lady Luck

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John Glenn Jr. demonstrated Wednesday he can thumb his nose at superstitions and go along with a gag as well as anybody. He did so at a meeting of 13 senators to give him a watch inscribed "13" for his history-making flight in the 13th space capsule.

The proceedings started promptly at 10:13 a.m. when Senator Everett M. Dirksen, Illinois Republican, smashed a mirror into at least 1,300 pieces with a mighty hammer.

Dirksen said the Anti-Superstition Society of Chicago, at its last meeting on Friday, April 13, deputized him to present the watch for Glenn's achievement in space.

Dirksen suggested the astronaut acknowledge with a 13-second speech to the 13 senators.

Glenn came back with a crack aimed at the Senate's rule of unlimited debate. "I thought you were going to say if I talked for 13 hours, I'd be in good company here."

U.S. Hopes High For Test Today

HONOLULU (UPI)—After two consecutive postponements because of weather, U.S. scientists set up a third attempt today to explode a rocket-borne nuclear device high above Johnston Island. The shot was set for the five hours following 1 a.m. PDT.

Bunny Breeding Not for Bishop

THIRSK, England (AP)—The bishop of Thirsk, Rt. Rev. George D'Oyley Snow, Wednesday explained a rabbit-for-sale sign outside his home.

"Actually, it's my 17-year-old son Thomas who breeds and sells rabbits—not me," the church of England prelate said.

"We've had quite a few callers in the last few days and everyone seems to think I'm in the rabbit business."

Asked what happened when his son was at school, the bishop replied: "Ah, yes. On those occasions I deal with the callers."

High-Level Briber Faces Death In Red Crackdown

MOSCOW (Reuters)—At least 10 Soviet citizens, including two high government officials, have been sentenced to death for bribery, currency speculation and fraud. It was learned here Wednesday.

One official was K. D. Degtyarev, a former department head in the Soviet finance ministry, who was sentenced to be shot for taking bribes, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

LONG TRIAL

Nine persons were sentenced to death after a four-month trial in Frunze, capital of Soviet Kirghizia, according to a local newspaper reaching here.

It was the largest number of persons known to have been sentenced to death in one trial since the death penalty was introduced last year for bribery, currency speculation or misappropriation of state property.

SOME GET SENTENCES

The newspaper, Sovetskaya Kirghizia, said 49 persons stood trial at Frunze and that an unspecified number of persons were sentenced to 15 years "deprivation of freedom."

Among the nine sentenced to death was B. D. Dyushaliyev, former chairman of the republic's state planning commission.

The newspaper said the accused had stolen state property worth more than 3,000,000 rubles (about $3,300,000) and had used it to acquire foreign currency and gold for speculation.

Tass also reported that six men, said to be former German Gestapo members, were sentenced Wednesday by a north Caucasus military tribunal to be shot for taking part in mass exterminations of local inhabitants during the Second World War.

GUERRILLAS READY

In the mountain stronghold of Kabylia, east of Algiers, almost 8,000 guerrillas prepared to defend their villages against Ben Bella's strike for control of this new nation.

Ben Khedda appealed for peace and unity, warning that "the dangers of civil war and foreign intervention" — apparently meaning by France — "have become real."

As he spoke convoys of French troops were on the highways in the vicinity of Algiers. But it was impossible to determine their aim or destination.

Tell Kennedy Says Nikita

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev and his wife Nina gave an unprecedented courtesy house farewell party Wednesday for the retiring U.S. ambassador, Llewellyn Thompson, and his wife.

TWO SCOLARS

For the rest, "name it and you've got it," said the ambassador. "We have a very free and easy relationship," the ambassador said of Khrushchev. "He would me and I would him."

ALL, DANIELA

Thompson, who leaves for home Friday, said his talk with Khrushchev covered all important issues between the two countries.

In all, Thompson spent five hours during the day with Khrushchev—the most time the Soviet premier ever has lavished on a departing diplomat.

New Hong Kong Crisis

Invasion by Sea Choking Colony

HONG KONG (AP)—Government officials reported Wednesday that a steadily increasing flow of seaborne refugees from Communist China is presenting a serious threat to the overcrowded British colony.

They estimated the human flow by sea has tripled in the last six months to more than 300 a day, or 10,000 a month. "The problem is more critical than the mass exodus of last May," one top official said.

The government has cracked down with stiff jail sentences for some refugee smugglers. It is considering the destruction of junks and other vessels used in the thriving smuggling trade.

COME AT NIGHT Practically all the illegal immigration from China now is over water and nearly all of it at night. The refugees are smuggled — at rates ranging from $3 to $100 per fugitive — in junks and other vessels that mingle with the thousands of fishing craft dotting the waters separating Hong Kong and China.

The government recently undertook a $2,000,000 program to modernize and re-equip its marine police patrols. But the number of refugees is still increasing.

Schultz Will Win But Which Sex?

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—The Schultz family has an excellent chance to win the seat in the state legislature representing the city's 10th ward.

Both Edward G. Schultz and his wife, Mildred, are seeking nomination for the seat — he as a Democrat and she as a Republican.

Schultz says he and his wife agree on most things, even in politics.

ALGIERS (CP) — Civil war was threatened today in Algeria. Loyalist Algerian troops were reported marching on the eastern city of Constantine, taken by dissident forces Wednesday.

A spokesman for the provisional government said many persons were killed in clashes when forces backing the dissident vice-premier, Ahmed Ben Bella, took Constantine and another key eastern city, Bone.

In Paris, Louis Joux, minister for Algerian affairs, said the French army may have to intervene to restore order. The newspaper Figaro reported 25 persons died and 30 were wounded as dissidents took the two cities.

TROOPS MARCHING

Some 1,200 troops supporting loyalist Vice-Premier Belkacem Krim were said to be marching on Constantine. Krim said Wednesday night his followers would fight to resist Ben Bella's attempted seizure of power in Algeria.

The report of loyalist troops on the march came from a reliable source in Tizi Ouzou, the Kabylia area capital where Krim and another vice-premier, Mohammed Boudist, have their headquarters. Both are opposed to Ben Bella.

REPORT ESCAPE

The sources reported also that Lakdar Ben Tobbal, a minister of state in the government of the provisional premier, Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, had escaped from Ben Bella forces who had arrested him when they marched into Constantine.

Other soldiers loyal to the central government set up machine-gun defence positions around Algiers.

Cowichan Fall Fair Given Double Boost

DUNCAN—Local Jaycees have received $200 from the Cowichan exhibition planning board after Duncan promised the Jaycees $300 toward the parade opening the Cowichan fall fair Sept. 8. The $200 will be used for prizes for the best participants in the parade.

HORSE AUCTION

Meanwhile, local auctioneer Tom Boyles, after a successful horse auction, donated $45 to the Cowichan Riding Club which in turn handed the money to the exhibition planning board to help pay for two new barns. It was the first exclusive horse auction here but more are planned in the future. High price of $300 was paid for a registered Arabian gelding from the mainland.

ALBERNI—A change in closure hours for the Tofino-Alberni highway has been announced by the department of highways.

Effective today, the road will be closed Monday through Friday from 5 a.m. until 3 p.m. Public access will be permitted from 3 p.m. Friday until 5 a.m. Monday. Early shift logging caused the change.

NANAIMO—Power consumption in this district rose by 7,000,000 kilowatt hours in the fiscal year ending March 29 to 102,354,000 kilowatt hours, says the B.C. Power Commission.

Number of connections rose by 520 to 14,462; average consumption increased by 205 kwh to 5,130 and Nanaimo, Departure Bay and Harewood received 80 new street lights.

NANAIMO—Dean Walter Gage, chairman of the UBC awards committee, has announced a $150 scholarship for a Vancouver Island Grade 12 student.

The scholarship is to be presented by the Vancouver Island council of the B.C. Recreational Association, and will be awarded to a student specializing in the recreational course, leading to a bachelor of physical education degree. Applicants should apply to Dean Gage before Aug. 31 and must have a score of 65 per cent or better in the June examinations.

LADYSMITH—Police say no one was injured in a two-car collision north of Ladysmith at the Trans-Canada Highway and Christie Road near the Diamond bridge. Drivers involved were H. R. Barlett of Nanaimo and George Cousin of Kamloops. Damage was estimated at $375.

NANAIMO—Another report of theft of milk money from bottles left out overnight was made yesterday by W. E. Hunt of Victoria Road.

Police also say a sedan delivery, with the name Hayes and Brown Equipment painted on it, was stolen from the Hayes yard at Casady.

NANAIMO—A conference of the American Association on Mental Deficiency held recently in Seattle was attended by Mrs. Carolyn Clark, principal of the Nanaimo school for retarded children. The conference was primarily concerned with investigating the inter-disciplinary approach in proceeding from diagnosis to treatment. It also featured a tour of the Fircrest School in Seattle, similar to the New Westminster Woodlands School.

NANAIMO—Greg McKeachie, 11, of West Vancouver, successfully landed a 30-pound spring salmon Tuesday off Piper's Lagoon after playing it for 10 minutes.

KYUQUOT—Fishermen are concerned over the numbers of inexperienced men employed in the trolling fleet. It is felt many ignore the rules of the road at sea, and regard warning blasts as joyful noise rather than part of the international code. It has been suggested new fishermen should have to pass a simple test on sea laws.

Special Meeting

Alberni Eyes Bids Tuesday

ALBERNI—City council will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday to open tenders for construction of the city's sewer system.

Due date was extended for one week on request of several contractors.

Council recently received approval of a $78,000 federal loan for part of the project. If the portion covered by the loan is completed by March 31, 1963, repayment of 25 per cent will be cancelled.

Tenders have been called for renovation of Alberni post office building, council was informed in a letter from G. E.

McPhee of the federal department of public works.

The letter said negotiations are being carried out with the lowest bidder.

Ald. Thomas Barnett said he had heard negotiations were proceeding favorably and it is expected the project would begin soon.

He understood the lowest bid had been higher than the estimate and revisions were being made in the plans.

Three Survive Car Crash

ALBERNI—Three young men escaped with minor injuries early Wednesday when a car crashed off the road at a curve in Beaver Creek district.

Police said the car, owned by Annie Cyr, Second Avenue South, Port Alberni, was driven by Eric Joseph Harrison, also of Second Avenue South. It failed to negotiate the left-hand turn 1/4 mile past Beaver Creek School.

Harrison is being treated in hospital for neck injuries and Allan Norman of Alberni for lacerations to the jaw and hand. Both were in good condition. Allan Mallory, the third occupant, was not admitted. Damage was about $1,000.

You have undoubtedly found that State Express 555 Filter Kings are almost a half inch longer than regular cigarettes. In fact, there isn't a longer cigarette in Canada. You were probably more than pleasantly surprised to find that 555's smoked a little cooler and gave you a taste that is richer, smoother and noticeably more rewarding.

Why?

We found that certain tobaccos were particularly well suited to this new continental king-size length. These we reserved for State Express 555 Filter Kings. Then we added a superb filter and the world famous State Express manufacturing techniques. In combination they give you an elegant cigarette of outstanding quality.

A cigarette, however, is a personal thing—and if you haven't tried State Express 555 Filter Kings, pick up a carton and... join the club.

Play Plan Point Missed?

By IAN STREET

Municipal leaders appear to have "entirely missed the implications" of the recreation report turned down by the Intermunicipal committee Tuesday, a spokesman for the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria said yesterday.

Council president Dr. Roy Watson expressed "deep regret" at the failure of the intermunicipal body to endorse any of the recommendations contained in the bulky report.

He said it apparently had escaped the notice of the intermunicipal committee that the purpose of establishing one combined parks and recreation commission for the four municipalities would not under any circumstances be to organize people's play for them.

Dr. Watson added: "The joint commission—the major recommendation of the report—would provide leadership to assist all types of recreational groups to do things better for themselves and to ensure maximum use of all available facilities."

"Victoria is the only major city in Canada without a recreation commission or its equivalent staffed by professional people," Dr. Watson said.

A Joint Commission

Prof. Fred Martens said the commission must be a joint one serving all Greater Victoria because recreational needs overlap artificial municipal boundaries.

He was chairman of the committee which spent 18 months conducting a survey of all aspects of recreation in Greater Victoria before writing the report.

It showed, Prof. Martens said, the community as a whole was fortunate in the number of private organizations and volunteers offering some form of recreational program.

He added, however, "there are many gaps and no little chaos and confusion due to lack of co-ordination and leadership."

This situation can only be rectified by "a properly organized and adequately staffed public authority," said Prof. Martens.

Dr. Watson said the joint commission would comprise representatives of the four local municipalities plus "three or four persons trained and experienced in the field of recreation."

Supplement Personnel

The latter group, he said, would "supplement the excellent personnel presently administering parks and playing facilities."

The council president said he agreed with views expressed by Mayor R. B. Wilson and Esquimalt Coun. G. K. Sammon every effort should be made to put existing facilities to fuller use.

Dr. Watson doubted if this could be accomplished without some central leadership and administration.

He said the community welfare council has already sought a meeting with Greater Victoria school board to discuss wider use of school facilities for recreation.

In the past, however, Dr. Watson said, one of the problems of dealing with school boards was the lack of any single authority with whom suitable arrangements could be made for financing and supervising such a program.

Hardest hit by the decision to take no action on the recreation report, said Prof. Martens, will be senior citizens and other groups needing assistance for specialized programs such as the physically handicapped.

He said the Silver Threads Service is finding its present facilities "entirely inadequate" and warned that some new centre for senior citizens will have to be built "by someone in the near future."

Victim Struck

Girl Molester Sought in City

City police are searching for a youth who savagely attacked a 21-year-old girl shortly after midnight yesterday.

The woman, whose screams drove off the attacker, told police she was struck in the stomach twice by her assailant and knocked to the ground.

She said she was walking home in the 100 Block Pemberton when the attacker, described as about 20 years of age, walked up to her and struck her.

She said he put his hand over her mouth when she screamed. She suffered bruises to the leg and arm when she was knocked down.

Escaped Convict Still at Large

Police have drawn a blank in their search for a 39-year-old convict who escaped from the William Head minimum security prison a week ago.

Still at large is Peter Richard Soloway, who was serving a three-year sentence for breaking and entering.

Secret Ballot Slated For Big Play Centre

A secret ballot to determine the future of a proposed $115,000 community recreation centre in the Belmont naval housing area will be held there early in September.

Some 450 families in the area will vote on the proposal to finance the project through a $50,000 government grant and a $65,000 government loan repayable at $2 per month per family on a payroll deduction system.

The recreation centre would contain sports facilities, hobby shops, a bowling alley and meeting rooms.

Fire Hazard Moves Toward Extreme As Five Acres Burn

The fire hazard throughout the Vancouver forest district is steadily worsening, a B.C. Forest Service spokesman said yesterday.

But he added it was still far from the point where even partial closures would be enforced.

"Of course if a lot of people suddenly got careless, we might have an extreme situation on our hands," said the officer.

CERTAIN AREAS

He said certain areas of the district had already moved from the high hazard into the "extreme" category.

One such area, he said, was Langford, where suppression crews from the ranger station have doused three spot grass fires in the past two days.

The lack of "canopy" protection of dense forest in that area has turned Langford's meadow grass into tinder. All three fires quelled by suppression crews are believed to have started from either children playing with matches or careless smokers.

Six forest fires are burning in the district, the worst a spreading five-acre blaze in logging slash west of Lund on the mainland.

The forest service official said overnight moisture recovery in the district was "excellent."

A group of 30 young 4-H club members from Saanich will leave Vancouver Island Friday afternoon for a week-end exchange visit to Gray's Harbor County in Washington under the supervision of Duncan assistant district agriculturalist Richard Collis.

In return young farmers from Gray's Harbor County have been invited to visit Vancouver Island next year.

The local youngsters will tour the Weyerhaeuser pulp mill, Ocean Spray cranberry parking plant and a fish-smoking plant and go on a charter boat cruise.

Motel Access Cost $25,000

Officials Block Private Road

By JACK FRY

A View Royal motel operator who spent $25,000 building a private road yesterday saw it blocked off with $10 worth of wooden posts — compliments of the B.C. department of highways.

In a bid to draw customers from the Trans-Canada Highway, five miles west of Victoria, Herbert Plasterer, owner of the Canadian Crest Motel at 340 Island Highway, built a road connecting routes 1 and 1A.

STURDY POSTS

Yesterday the highways department planted five sturdy posts across the Trans-Canada entrance to Mr. Plasterer's new road.

The angry motel operator called a lawyer and vowed he will take the case to court if necessary.

Highways department officials said Mr. Plasterer's road was blocked because it constituted illegal access to the Trans-Canada Highway.

ROW BOILS UP

The row apparently boiled up over the motel man's efforts to publicize his View Royal establishment by erecting a series of signs beside the Trans-Canada Highway on the city-side of the Thetis overpass.

There were signs reading "Welcome to Victoria," "Motel 500 yards," "private property," "Canadian Crest," "$6 and up" and "vacancy," said Mr. Plasterer.

MEETINGS, LETTERS

Meetings took place between highways officials and the motel operator, followed by correspondence.

Finally, the new access road was blocked by the highways department.

The motel operator said yesterday the only times his motel on Highway 1A is filled are those occasions when city motels are overflowing and turning customers away.

TAP VISITORS

He said he decided to tap visitors coming into the city by putting the road through to the Trans-Canada. In order to do this, he purchased two properties adjacent to the Trans-Canada for $20,000, running his $5,000 road through one and putting signs on both.

But highways officials said Mr. Plasterer had no permit for either the road or the signs and both were infractions of provincial laws.

NEVER ZONED

They also said the two Trans-Canada properties purchased by Mr. Plasterer were never zoned for commercial use by the planning body which governs that portion of unorganized territory.

Mr. Plasterer contended he had received verbal approval for his plans from the late district engineer A. F. Provenzano, who was killed May 21 this year in an airplane crash at Patricia Bay Airport.

SPEND $25,000?

"Do you think I would spend $25,000 on this extra land without finding out first whether I could use it?" he asked.

Mr. Plasterer said his legal adviser will make representations to the provincial government to have the roadblock lifted.

Copper Concentrator Planned for Courtenay

COURTENAY—A concentrator with a 1,000-ton daily capacity is planned by Mount Washington Copper here.

Crown Zellerbach, co-operating with the mining company, is building a road from the mine to the mill site five miles away.

Diamond drilling—but no mining—is being carried on now. Previous amounts taken from the claim indicate the 1,000-ton concentrator is necessary.

Ore was shipped by barge to the smelters last year but the concentrator will mean concentrates will be shipped.

Strange Accident Killed Logger

CAMPBELL RIVER—A log-around, knocking Woodruffing accident which a workman's compensation official said he had never heard of before killed Albert George Woodruff, 53, a corner's jury was told Tuesday.

The jury ruled Woodruff's death the day before at the Bear Bay logging camp, 90 miles from here, was an accident and no one was to blame.

Witnesses testified logs were being brought down a sharp incline when the derrick engine began stalling. Woodruff, a chokerman, stood on a stump to see what was happening.

The choker bell, through which steel cables holding logs are threaded, suddenly snapped. Bell and choker whipped

Skier-Tower Fined As Lake 'Danger'

CAMPBELL RIVER—Steven Barna of Edmonton, whose small boat was towing a skier when it collided with another boat on Melvor Lake near Forbes Landing, has been fined $25 by local Magistrate P. E. Lewis for navigating a boat in a dangerous manner.

Police charged Barna after being told of the collision by C. Cochrane of Campbell River, father of Leland Cochrane, 12, only occupant of the other boat.

The boy was not hurt but his vessel received $45 damage.

Magistrate Lewis told Barna the law requires boats towing skiers to have two people aboard—one to navigate and look forward, the other to watch the skier.

Barna said he had a companion but both were watching the skier. The two boats were the only ones on Melvor Lake at the time.

Comox Rejects Huge Block For Not Fitting Zoning Plans

COURTENAY—Because it did not fit in with zoning plans for a residential area, a $250,000 apartment plan has been rejected by the village of Comox.

Commissioners told D. Earl Dickinson, who planned to build the 24-suite block on his 1½-acre waterfront property, they agreed with local planners who felt the plan should be rejected in the best interests of zoning.

Mr. Dickinson said the three-storey building would be no higher than his existing home, which would be moved to make way for the building.

His property covers 1½ acres with 250 feet of waterfront.

Health Plan

Shunned By 100

SASKATOON (CP) — Private practice outside the Medical Care Insurance Act was the choice of more than 100 Regina district doctors, members of the Regina and District Medical Society, who made their decision Tuesday night.

It was the first reported concerted decision by doctors to shun the provincial medical care plan since settlement of the dispute.

Under the legislation governing the provincial plan, it will still be up to patients to decide whether to seek reimbursement for medical expenses.

REIMBURSEMENT

If the patient's personal physician is not enrolled under the provincial plan, the patient may seek reimbursement from the Medical Care Insurance Commission.

Meanwhile the province's emergency care program was being dismantled Wednesday and the vice-president of the Saskatchewan Keep Our Doctors Committee said he was resigning.

SPECIAL SESSION

The moves came in the wake of settlement Monday of the medical care dispute between the College of Physicians and Surgeons and the provincial government. Doctors, who boycotted the provincial medical care plan after it was implemented July 1, returned to work and the government promised a special session of the legislature to amend the act in line with Monday's agreement.

GUARANTEE CHOICE

The agreement guaranteed doctors a choice of working under the medical care act or outside it in varying degrees.

Indications Wednesday were that the long boycott and the bitter dispute cost the province a number of doctors.

Dr. J. B. Mesbur, president of the Regina Medical Society, said the permanent loss of doctors could not yet be definitely established.

Dr. Mesbur said doctors who attended Tuesday night's meeting in Regina decided that they will urge their patients to retain medical coverage with voluntary prepaid agencies.

He said enrolment fees in the voluntary agencies will not exceed $6 a year per family — just enough to cover the cost of administration.

New Hong Kong Crisis

Invasion by Sea Choking Colony

HONG KONG (AP) — Government officials reported Wednesday that a steadily increasing flow of seaborne refugees from Communist China is presenting this overcrowded British colony a new crisis.

They estimated the human flow by sea has tripled in the last six months to more than 300 a day, or 10,000 a month. The problem is more critical than the mass exodus of last May, one top official said.

The government has cracked down with still harsher sentences against some refugee smugglers. It number of refugees is still in considering the destruction of the colony.

Young Boxer Dies From Blow to Head

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — A young boxer making his professional debut died last night from a shattering right cross to the head.

Henry Hunter, 29, never regained consciousness after being knocked out by Redcliffe Gentry in the final round of a scheduled four-round featherweight bout.

It was the eighth ring death so far this year in amateur and professional bouts.

Gas Truck Explodes Homes Razed, 19 Hurt

BERLIN, N.Y. (AP) — A tank truck loaded with propane gas exploded Wednesday on a steep hill in this eastern New York community, destroying at least nine homes and a church, and damaging at least 11 other houses. The driver died later in a hospital.

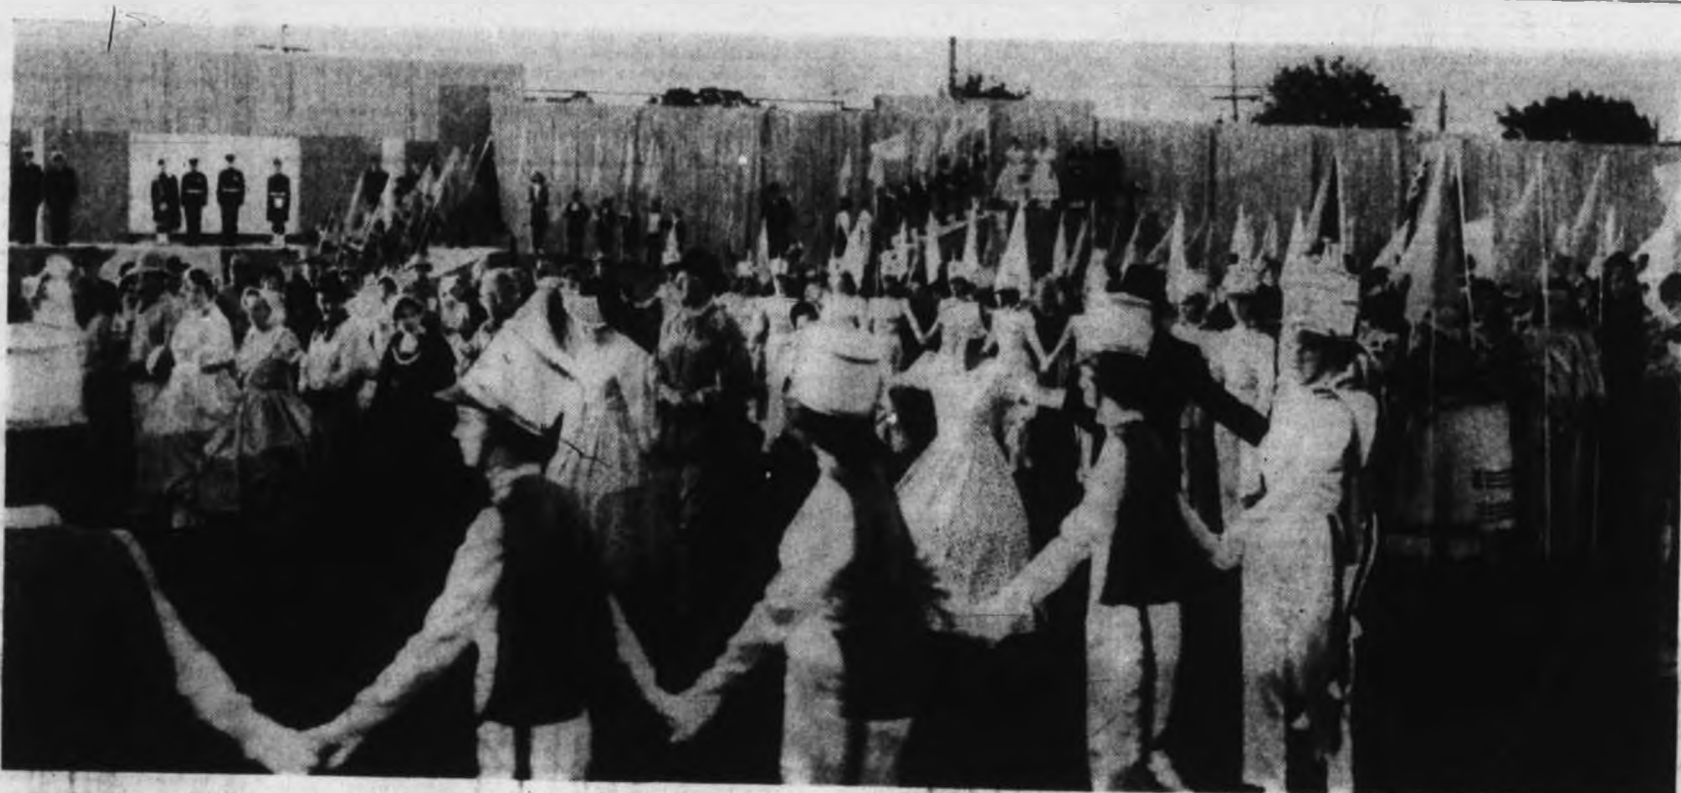

State police said more than 19 persons were taken to hospitals in nearby Troy and in Bennington, Vt. Several were reported in critical condition.

The driver was identified tentatively as Robert Melacase, 39, of Pomery, Pa. State police said he was driving a truck leased by E. Brooke Matlack Inc. of Philadelphia.

Firemen said the truck's brakes apparently caught fire while it was coming down a steep, winding, two-mile-long hill. The community of a few dozen homes is about 12 miles from the New York-Massachusetts-Vermont state line.

Holden Gutermuth, 24, said he witnessed the accident from a field. He gave this account: "I heard the truck coming. The brakes were squealing. Then there was a pause, then a pop, then boom. It (the flames) must have gone 150 to 200 feet in the air... it was bright orange."

Sixteen fire departments were fighting the fires and 11 ambulances were sent to the scene.

Pageant Set to Go

The 1,000-strong cast of Victoria's centennial pageant practices grand finale at last night's dress rehearsal. Including ethnic groups, representatives of organizations and many others, cast reached high stage of efficiency by this first dress rehearsal, and there's still another rehearsal tonight. Show opens Saturday and runs to Aug. 4. People have been advised to get tickets early to be sure of place. See story on Page 21. — (Karl Spreitz photo.)

High Test Fails Rocket Destroyed

BULLETIN

HONOLULU (UPI) — The U.S. failed in its attempt to detonate a rocket-borne nuclear device over Johnston Island early this morning when the rocket carrying the nuclear warhead was reportedly destroyed on the launching pad.

The Thor rocket was launched at 2:14 a.m.

Glenn, Senators Orbit in Face Of Lady Luck

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John Glenn Jr. demonstrated Wednesday he can thumb his nose at superstitions and go along with a gas as well as anything.

He did so at a meeting of 13 senators to give him a watch I cribbed "13" for his history-making flight in the 13th space capsule.

The proceedings started promptly at 10:13 a.m. when Senator Everett M. Dirksen, Illinois Republican, smashed a mirror into at least 1,300 pieces with a mighty hammer blow.

Dirksen said the Anti-Superstition Society of Chicago, at its last meeting on Friday, April 13, deputized him to present the watch for Glenn's achievement in space.

Dirksen suggested the astronaut acknowledge with a 13-second speech to the 13 senators.

Glenn came back with a crack aimed at the Senate's rule of unlimited debate: "I thought you were going to say if I talked for 13 hours, I'd be in good company here."

Bunny Breeding Not for Bishop

TIERCE, England (AP) — The bishop of Whitby, Rt. Rev. George D'Oyley Snow, Wednesday explained a rabbit-breeding sign outside his home.

"Actually, it's my 17-year-old son Thomas who breeds and sells rabbits—not me," the Church of England priest said.

"We've had quite a few callers in the last few days and everyone seems to think I'm in the rabbit business."

Asked what happened when his son was at school, the bishop replied: "Ah, yes. On those occasions I deal with the callers."

High-Level Briber Faces Death In Red Crackdown

MOSCOW (Reuters) — At least 10 Soviet citizens, including two high government officials, have been sentenced to death for bribery, currency speculation and fraud, it was learned here Wednesday.

One official was K. D. Degtyarev, a former department head in the Soviet finance ministry, who was sentenced to be shot for taking bribes, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

LONG TRIAL

Nine persons were sentenced to death after a four-month trial in Frunze, capital of Soviet Kirghizia, according to a local newspaper reaching here.

It was the largest number of persons known to have been sentenced to death in one trial since the death penalty was introduced last year for bribery, currency speculation or misappropriation of state property.

SOME GET SENTENCES

The newspaper, Sovietkay Kirghizia, said 49 persons stood trial at Frunze and that an unspecified number of persons were sentenced to 15 years "deprivation of freedom."

Among the nine sentenced to death was B. D. Dyushaliyev, former chairman of the republic's state planning commission.

The newspaper said the accused had stolen state property worth more than 3,000,000 rubles (about $3,500,000) and had used it to acquire foreign currency and gold for speculation.

Tass also reported that six men said to be former German Gestapo members, were sentenced Wednesday by a north Caucasus military tribunal to be shot for taking part in mass exterminations of local inhabitants during the Second World War.

Envoy Regaled

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev and his wife Nina gave an unprecedented country house farewell party Wednesday for the retiring U.S. ambassador, Llewellyn Thompson, and his wife.

They ate an eight-course terrace meal amid "interesting and useful talk," the ambassador said. Khrushchev told him to "go home and tell President Kennedy what I said."

ALL DATES

Thompson, who leaves for home Friday, said his talk with Khrushchev covered all important issues between the two countries.

EIGHT COURSES

Thompson, who was U.S. ambassador here for five years, will be succeeded by Foy D. Kohler.

Mrs. Thompson said the lunch "was delicious, all eight courses of it."

The main course was whole

ALGIERS (CP) — Civil war was threatened today in Algeria. Loyalist Algerian troops were reported marching on the eastern city of Constantine, taken by dissident forces Wednesday.

A spokesman for the provisional government said many persons were killed in clashes when forces backing the dissident vice-premier, Ahmed Ben Bella, took Constantine and another key eastern city, Bone.

In Paris, Louis Joxe, minister for Algerian affairs, said the French army may have to intervene to restore order. The newspaper Figaro reported 25 persons died and 30 were wounded as dissidents took the two cities.

TROOPS MARCHING

Some 1,200 troops supporting loyalist Vice-Premier Belkacem Krim were said to be marching on Constantine. Krim said Wednesday night his followers would fight to resist Ben Bella's attempted seizure of power in Algeria.

The report of loyalist troops on the march came from a reliable source in Tizi Ouzou, the Kabylia area capital where Krim and another vice-premier, Mohammed Bouidif, have their headquarters. Both are opposed to Ben Bella.

REPORT ESCAPE

The sources reported also that Lakdar Ben Tobbal, a minister of state in the government of the provisional premier, Ben Youssef Ben Khedda, had escaped from Ben Bella forces who had arrested him when they marched into Constantine.

Other soldiers loyal to the central government set up machine-gun defence positions around Algiers.

GUERRILLAS READY

In the mountain stronghold of Kabylia, east of Algiers, almost 8,000 guerrillas prepared to defend their villages against Ben Bella's strike for control of this new nation.

Ben Khedda appealed for peace and unity, warning that "the dangers of civil war and foreign intervention" — apparently meaning by France — "have become real."

As he spoke convoys of French troops were on the highways in the vicinity of Algiers. But it was impossible to determine their aim or destination.

Royal Navy Chinese Sent to Jail

LONDON (Reuters) — Three Chinese employed aboard a British cruiser were jailed for terms from one to five years here Wednesday for possessing opium and heroin worth £325,000.

FOR AMERICA

Prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones said the drugs were found on the cruiser Belfast on a voyage from the Far East to San Francisco.

Griffith-Jones said there was no doubt that most of the drugs were "destined for either South or North America."

The accused, all from Hong Kong, were Yang Hai Lou, 43; Ah Lee Wong, 38; and Gan Ping Kwok, 29 — sentenced to one, four and five years respectively.
